

Senate Starts Work on Farm Measure After Filibuster Ends

Wagner Withdraws His Motion on Anti-Lynching Bill

PLAN TAX REVISION
Abandon Hope of Committee Action on Pay-Hour Bill

Washington—(P)—The senate went to work on long-range farm legislation today after side-tracking the anti-lynching bill.

As it did so, administration leaders—trying to push forward with the president's program on another front—abandoned hope of getting the wages and hours bill from the house rules committee. The committee has refused since last summer to let the house consider the labor measure.

During the day a house subcommittee agreed tentatively to a complete revision of the corporate tax system. It would increase abandonment of undistributed profits levies on corporations with incomes of $25,000, or less, and modifications on incomes greater than that.

The farm bill, providing surplus crop control, was called up in the senate as soon as Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.) withdrew his motion to take up the anti-lynching legislation. The latter measure has had the senate tied up in a filibuster.

Controversy Not Ended
The action, however, merely deferred the anti-lynching controversy to a later date. Vice President Garner ruled that the legislation, opposed by southerners, would come up again automatically as soon as the farm bill is out of the way.

Soon after the house met Chairman O'Connor (D-N. Y.) of the rules committee announced that his group refused to let the wage-hour measure come out to the floor.

When this became apparent the house Democratic leader—Rayburn of Texas—affixed his signature to a petition which would take the bill away from the committee and bring it to a vote.

The action of the house tax subcommittee took place a few hours before the Republican membership of the house planned to meet and consider, among other things, the tax situation.

Favors Tax Plan
Representative Woodruff (R-Mich.), who was asked to preside over the conference, said that if the Republicans agreed to repeal of the undistributed profits tax it would meet with his approval "110 per cent."

House leaders hoped to get the farm bill into the chamber within a day or two, but their efforts to pry loose the wage-hour bill were given a setback by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Objects to 5-Man Board
Green demanded in a letter to Chairman Norton (D-N. J.) of the house labor committee that the measure, which the senate passed last session, either be rewritten or dropped. He criticized the provision empowering a five-man board to fix maximum hours and minimum wages.

Green's letter came just as house leaders were arranging a dramatic appeal to get the necessary 218 signatures to discharge the wage-hour measure from the rules committee, which it has been blocked since summer.

Democratic leader Rayburn (D-Tex.) said he would sign the petition and then make a speech within the rules committee, meeting this morning, voluntarily released the bill.

Regional Planning
The house rivers and harbors committee began hearings today on a regional planning program, another of the president's recommendations.

The proposal would create seven regional authorities to coordinate all proposals for conserving the nation's resources, ranging from stream pollution curbs to construction of flood control dams.

Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex.) of the committee said he would submit to the members suggestions that the authorities be fact-finding.

PILOT KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Death brought an abrupt end to a gay 108-mile aerial treasure hunt Sunday when one of the eight planes participating crashed on the Shoop park golf course, three miles north of Racine, killing John Shields, 22-year-old West Allis, Wis., pilot, and injuring his companion, John Shields, 21, of Wauwatosa, a student pilot. The wreckage of the plane is shown here.

Forrest Longway, federal air bureau inspector, expressed belief yesterday the crash might have been avoided if the plane had been flying at an altitude prescribed by government regulations. The aviation official said the minimum altitude prescribed by the department of commerce for open country flying was 500 feet. He said he had received reports placing the altitude of the plane between 100 and 200 feet before it crashed.

Federal Judge Denies Pleas For Directed Verdicts for 16 Concerns in Oil Trial

Madison—(P)—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone denied today all motions for directed verdicts of acquittal for the remaining 16 corporate defendants in the federal government's gasoline price-fixing case.

Judge Stone withheld a ruling as to similar motions on behalf of the 41 executives and employees who are on trial here. He recessed court until next Monday and wished the defendants "a happy Thanksgiving."

When court reconvened this morning he set for an hour late, following a conference in the judge's chambers, Judge Stone said: "The court is of the opinion that there is competent and substantial evidence in the record to support a finding of guilty as far as the corporate defendants are concerned."

"But as to the individual defendants, I have given that very much concern. While there is substantial evidence in the record against some of the individuals, I want to give that some more consideration. I will withhold my ruling until some later time."

The judge, in effect, held that the evidence is such as to require a defense, at least as to the corporations and some of the individuals. The defense, therefore, will begin presentation of its case next Monday.

Judge Stone yesterday dismissed the conspiracy charges against three companies—the Gulf Oil corporation, its subsidiary Gulf Refining company, and the Texas company—and four Texas company officials.

Gulf officials, having resisted extradition to Madison, were not on trial. Judge Stone made it clear he has not released them from the indictment. Whether further action will be taken against them may depend upon the outcome of this case.

Judge Stone has not yet ruled on the question whether officials whose companies have been freed are also to be released. This question raised in connection with officers of Tide Water Associated Oil company, which has been dismissed.

Freed at the same time as Tide Water were the Cities Service Export Oil company, Deep Rock Oil corporation, Louisiana Oil Refining company, three market publications company, Platt's Oilgram of Commerce, Platt's Oilgram of the National Petroleum News, and Western C. Platt, Oilgram and the Petroleum News editor.

Chicago Woman Admits Slaying

Blames Victim for Loss of Her Husband's Affections

Chicago—(P)—A 31-year-old mother of three children was under arrest today on a charge of slaying a young woman whom she blamed for the loss of her husband's affections.

The victim was Miss Irene Kirshen, 25, found dying of three bullet wounds last night at a bakery where she was employed as a clerk. Held by police was the baker's wife, Ada Szczykowsky.

Police Lieutenant Jack Lahey said Mrs. Szczykowsky called the police and upon their arrival at the bakery said: "There she is; I shot her. She's dead."

Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin said she later told him: "When my husband died I was a crab and she was thinking of quitting. Later she said she was a good fellow."

"Today I walked up to Irene. 'Is it true Rudy bought you a diamond ring and a $250 accordion?' I asked her. She said it was true. Then I shot her."

House Group In Support of Tax Revision

Gives Tentative Approval To Plan for Corporate System

LISTS NEW RATES

Called 'Particularly Helpful to the Hardship Cases'

Washington—(P)—A house tax subcommittee tentatively approved today complete revision of the corporate tax system. It would involve repeal of the undistributed profits levy for all corporations with incomes up to $25,000 and retention on a modified basis for those with larger incomes.

The new plan, Chairman Vinson (D-Ky.) said, will be "particularly helpful to the hardship cases—corporations needing money for the purpose of rebuilding, plant expansion, to repair capital structure, and the like."

The new plan would impose on corporations with incomes up to $25,000 an income tax of 12 1/2 per cent on the first $5,000 of earnings and of 14 per cent on earnings of $5,000 to $25,000.

Corporations with incomes in excess of $25,000, Vinson said, would pay a tax graduated from 16 to 20 per cent, the rates graduating according to the amount of profits distributed to stockholders in the form of dividends.

Estimates show, Vinson added, that these two sets of rates will yield the same revenue as the existing corporate tax law, making up for a reduction in the amount of taxes that individuals will pay no dividends.

Taxes on individuals, he said, should be lowered by some $60,000,000 under the new proposal.

The new rate for the larger firms, Vinson said, would be 20 per cent if all income were retained and 16 per cent if all were distributed. The curve between the two extremes, he said, shows a reduction in the rate of four-tenths of 1 per cent for each 10 per cent of income distributed.

Thus a firm with an income above $25,000 would pay 16 1/2 per cent if it distributed 10 per cent of its profits, 19 1/2 per cent on 20 per cent distribution, 18 1/2 per cent on 30 per cent distribution, 18 1/2 per cent on 40 per cent distribution, 17 1/2 per cent on 50 per cent distribution, 16 1/2 per cent on 60 per cent distribution, 16 1/2 per cent on 70 per cent distribution, 16 1/2 per cent on 80 per cent distribution, 16 1/2 per cent on 90 per cent distribution, 16 1/2 per cent on 100 per cent distribution.

The program outlined today would wipe out the existing normal and undistributed profits rates.

Now a corporation pays a normal income tax of 8 per cent on net income up to $2,000, 11 per cent on the next $3,000, 15 per cent on the next $25,000 and 15 per cent on all over $40,000.

The undistributed profits rates now are 7 per cent on the first 10 per cent of undistributed adjusted net income, 12 per cent on the second 10 per cent, 17 per cent on the next 20 per cent, 22 per cent on the next 20 per cent, and 27 per cent on the remaining 40 per cent.

No Special "Cushions"
The plan would work out, Vinson said, so that a corporation having an income in excess of $25,000 would pay a top rate—if it retains all its income—of 20 per cent, compared with 37 1/2 per cent under existing law.

No special "cushions" now are contemplated for specific types of "hardship and inequity," Vinson said, because a corporation could retain all its income for any purpose it desired and still pay no more than a 20 per cent tax.

Individuals would pay a smaller tax, he estimated, because of a reduction in the present rates intended to compel distribution of corporate income.

Coupled with the tax that individuals pay on income received in the form of dividends, Vinson said, the new plan should produce the same amount of revenue as a flat corporation income tax of 22 1/2 per cent.

Janesville Woman's Son Dies Fighting in Spain

Janesville—(P)—Mrs. Mary Raby received a communication yesterday which stated that her son, Harry Raby, 37, had been killed by machine gun fire while fighting for loyalist forces in Spain about two weeks ago. Raby, father of two children, left for Spain in June, and went to the front a month later. One sister also survives.

President Confers With Advisers On Government Aid for Business

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt called in some of his principal advisers today to discuss ways the government can aid business.

Secretary Morgenthau and Undersecretary Magill, treasury tax expert, were summoned first for a conference on latest treasury studies of taxes.

Chairman W. Averell Harriman of Secretary Roper's business advisory council, followed the treasury officials to the White House.

A third conference was with Edward F. McGrady, director of labor relations for the Radio Corporation of America and former assistant labor secretary.

Coast Guard Cutter Starts Hunt for 3 Lighthouse Keepers

Duluth, Minn.—(P)—The United States coast guard cutter Diligence, sped toward the Apostle islands today to search for three lighthouse keepers who have not been heard from since Friday.

Missing were Keeper Barclay of Raspberry island who on Friday set out to take Keepers Bar-ningham and Seseman to their lighthouse posts on Devil's and outer islands by power boat. Diligence records carried only the last names of the men.

The men started out from Raspberry island, which does not have any means of communication with the outside world. Both stations at Devil's and outer islands have wireless systems but at these stations has been received.

Gov. Benson Asks Senate Committee To Intensify Quiz

Statement Assails 'Reactionary Minneapolis Employers' Group

Minneapolis—(P)—Asserting the state "will never quit" its efforts to solve the Patrick J. Corcoran slaying, Governor Benson today asked the senate civil liberties committee to intensify its investigation into a "reactionary Minneapolis employers' group."

The governor, in a statement, asserted every federal crime investigation agency should be asked to aid Minneapolis police and said he had instructed the state crime bureau to assign all available men to the case. Corcoran, a labor leader, was shot to death last Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Hennepin county grand jury opened an inquiry into charges by two Committee for Industrial Organization leaders of "gangsterism and racketeering" in the Minneapolis labor movement.

"Charges have been made that the slaying of Corcoran may have been the act of imported gangsters," the governor said.

"I heard these charges quite some months ago. Involved also were charges of anti-labor spy activities on the part of a reactionary Minneapolis labor employers group. At that time, I requested Senator Robert M. LaFollette to undertake an investigation by the senate civil liberties committee. This investigation has been under way for some time."

"I am trying to reach Senator LaFollette today and ask him to intensify that investigation because of the slaying of Mr. Corcoran. I will also speak to Senator Shipstead and assure him of my fullest support and cooperation in his move to request the LaFollette committee to investigate the gangsterism and racketeering charges," the governor said.

Family of Five Found Dead in Connecticut

Bridgeport, Conn.—(P)—Raymond C. Yeoman, 45, Canadian World war veteran and star athlete during his college days, his wife and their three children died today of illuminating gas poisoning.

Medical Examiner H. R. Deluca said the gas seeped through a crack in their cellar wall from a leak in a street main.

The three children, George, 16, Virginia, 14, and Jeanette, 7, were found in bed. Their parents were lying in a second floor hallway where they collapsed after an apparent attempt to reach the window of an adjoining sun parlor.

Mrs. Yeoman, 37, and her son died enroute to a hospital. The others were pronounced dead at the scene.

Repair crews, donning masks, dug up the street immediately to reach the leaking main. Scores of spectators were forbidden to smoke.

Yeoman was associate general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association here.

West Bend Child Killed When Hit by Automobile

West Bend, Wis.—(P)—Jean Hardegan, 6, was killed today when struck by an automobile driven by Robert P. Heinz, 41, Milwaukee, as she walked to school along a highway.

Sheriff Leo Burg and released. The sheriff said Heinz told him the child darted across the highway in front of his machine.

Envoy, Staff Move Offices From Nanking

Board U. S. Gunboat to Establish Temporary Embassy at Hankow

OTHERS ALSO MOVE

Japanese Planes Hammering at Strong Chinese Defense Lines

Shanghai—(P)—United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson and members of his staff embarked today on the United States gunboat Luzon for the long Yangtze river trip from Nanking to Hankow where a temporary embassy has been established.

Hankow, in Hupeh province, one of the three cities to which the central Chinese government had moved under the threat of an advancing Japanese army, lies about 280 miles by air southwest of Nanking and considerably further by way of the winding Yangtze. Johnson left several aides at Nanking.

While the American ambassador followed the Nanking government on its withdrawal further into the interior, another United States gunboat, the Oahu, steamed to the assistance of Americans at Wuhu, Kiukiang and other Yangtze ports upriver from Nanking.

A third gunboat, the Panay, was under orders to remain at Nanking. Others also move.

The German, British, French, Russian, Italian, Belgian and Mexican representatives also moved to Hankow. Envoys of the Netherlands and Switzerland proceeded to Shanghai.

These evacuations left 62 foreigners in Nanking—34 Americans, 16 British, 11 Germans and 1 Austrian. Japanese navy planes hammered today at Wushu, key point in Chinese defense lines half way between Shanghai and Nanking.

Although Chinese troops previously were reported in flight from crumbling Wushu defenses, Japanese officers admitted Chinese still held the city, some 95 miles southeast of the nation's capital. Japanese seemed confident their troops could reach Nanking this week.

At midday, Japanese said their forces still were five miles east of Wushu. Roads to the front were almost impassable because of continued heavy rains, so Japanese used airplanes to transport food and supplies to troops in the Wushu sector.

Japan Planes Busy
Japanese planes rained fire to the west in bombing forays. They were said to have destroyed 20 Chinese planes stationed at Chowkiakow, in Honan province.

Dr. H. H. King, Chinese finance minister, declared that China is prepared financially to see the war through, no matter how long it lasts. He said preparations had been completed for a prolonged conflict, added that removal of the government to interior cities did not mean abandonment of Nanking as the capital.

Ohio's Governor Answers Attack

Says 'CIO Affiliate Cannot Invade Sovereign Powers of State'

Columbus, Ohio—(P)—Governor Martin L. Davey, stormy petrel of the "little steel strike in Ohio, met today a complaint filed with the state labor relations board by the state that "even that CIO affiliate cannot invade the sovereign powers of the state of Ohio."

The complaint was filed against the chief executive by the United Rubber Workers of America, affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization, "to make Governor Davey confine his activity in strike matters to where there have been infractions of the law," Union Counsel Stanley Denlinger said.

In an action that James P. Miller, regional director of the N. L. R. B. Cleveland office, termed "unprecedented," the union thus answered Governor Davey's order Saturday to 2,000 national guardsmen to "stand by" for possible duty at the Akron factory of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company while a sit-down strike was in progress.

After terming the labor board a "CIO affiliate," Davey said: "I, to preserve law and order in Ohio, is to violate any federal statute, it would be news to me. In any event we choose to continue on the path of duty and protect the liberties of all our people. I still stand as the greater friend of labor than those who would beat them into submission to the iron will of a few self-seeking dictators."

Indiana Attorney Is Wounded in Chicago

Chicago—(P)—Frank J. Cook, 40-year-old Gary, Ind., attorney, was recovering today from two bullet wounds inflicted by a gunman who shot him in gangster fashion as he mounted the stairs of an elevated railroad platform in the loop.

Witnesses told police one of two men in a small car fired five shots at the lawyer last night. One bullet struck him in the chest and the other in the left wrist.

Cook, who also operates a barber shop in the loop, said he had no known enemies and in all probability the shooting was a mistake.

Bruised, Frozen Body Discovered on Floor Of Auto

INQUEST CALLED

Physician Says Woman Has Been Dead for Four or Five Days

The bruised and frozen body of a middle-aged woman was found about 10:30 this morning on the floor of a car parked in a garage at the rear of the Brillion Concrete works at Brillion.

Known only by the name of Anne, the woman made her home for the last few years at the small farm home of Walter Domske, on County Trunk W, town of Askeaton, Calumet county, about seven miles north of Brillion, according to county authorities.

Domske has not been seen in Brillion the last couple days and a search for him has been started, officials said. The body of the woman was found by Glen Seehaver, owner of the concrete works, when he went into the garage to do some work. The car in which she was found is owned by J. J. Minahan, county coroner, who said the cause of death, but said the Brillion High school, who said he had not used the machine since Friday evening, Nov. 12, when he took some students to a basketball game.

Seehaver called Dr. W. L. Boyden, Brillion physician, and notified Sheriff Gerhard Jensen. Dr. Boyden called Dr. E. L. Tharinger, Milwaukee state pathologist, to determine the cause of death, but said a post mortem will not be possible for at least a day because of the frozen condition of the body. He said the woman had been dead four or five days or perhaps a week.

Head Bruised
The woman's head was bruised and there were a few welts about the legs. Both Dr. Boyden and Dr. J. J. Minahan, county coroner, felt that the bruises were not enough to cause death.

One theory advanced was that the woman sought shelter of the garage, which was never locked, after a beating and froze to death.

Dr. Minahan called a coroner's jury which viewed the body at the J. Luecker and Sons Funeral parlors, Brillion, and the garage and car in which the body was found. Members of the jury are Victor Wolf, Frank Kleiber, Lynn Williams, Elmer Schmeller, Joseph A. Kleiber and Oscar Wiegand.

Grand Jury Starts to Probe Charges by CIO

Minneapolis—(P)—The Hennepin county grand jury prepared today to deliver into CIO charges of "gangsterism" in the Minneapolis labor movement as rival union groups asked additional separate inquiries which would bring to eight the agencies studying labor here and the assassination of Patrick J. Corcoran.

County Attorney Ed J. Goff said he would present to the jury two letters from CIO leaders to Mayor George Leach charging "gangsterism and racketeering in the Minneapolis labor movement."

General Drivers' Union 544, A. F. of L. with which the slain Corcoran was associated, planned to ask coroner Gilbert Seashore to conduct an inquest, and join the Central Labor union, A. F. of L., in demanding state Attorney General William S. Ervin name a special investigator.

The CIO Central Council already has asked Governor Elmer Benson to name a prosecutor and has wired the senate civil liberties committee.

Pope Pius Improving After Sinking Spell

Vatican City—(P)—Sources close to the papal household said Pope Pius suffered a sinking spell last night but appeared considerably better today, following his usual medical injections.

The pontiff was critically ill just a year ago. He suffers circulatory troubles, which from time to time have caused him considerable pain, particularly in the legs.

Newton Slaying Case Near Jury

Defendant Characterized as 'Life-Long Man of God' In Final Plea

Pittsfield, Ill.—(P)—The defense, appealing for the acquittal of the Rev. C. E. Newton, asked a circuit court jury today to think of the minister as a "life-long man of God," who could not have slain his "best friend."

Newton sat immobile as Martin Turner, one of his attorneys, began final arguments of the defense in the minister's trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Dennis Kelly, his former Sunday school teacher at Faris, Mo.

Describing Newton's 30-year career as a preacher in northeastern Missouri, Turner asked the jury: "Could this man murder his best friend? Can a leopard change its spots? Can white lambs change to black?"

The fate of the Missouri minister was expected to be turned over to the jury by night.

State's Attorney Merrill H. Johnson declared he would demand the 51-year-old clergyman to die in the electric chair for the hammer-slaying of Mrs. Kelly whose body was found in the Mississippi river last July 13.

Wants to 'Rivet' Mountain to Avert Avalanche Threat

Los Angeles—(P)—Dr. John P. Buwalda of California Institute of Technology suggested today the Ellysian park "moving mountain" be "riveted" with concrete piles.

The slide probably cannot be halted completely, he said, but an actual avalanche may be prevented. The $50-foot cliff slipped 13 inches toward Riverside drive and the Dayton avenue viaduct yesterday, an inch more than its former daily rate. Seven tons of earth and rock rolled into the streets.

Dr. Buwalda said residents of the neighborhood should be "continually warned to leave." He blamed excavation for Riverside drive, water saturation and traffic vibration for the slide, which has totaled 74 inches since Nov. 2. Both Riverside drive and the viaduct have been closed.

Labor Feud May Prevent Passage Of Pay-Hour Law

Federation Head Demands Changes: Lewis Urges Quick Enactment

Washington—(P)—House leaders abandoned hope today of getting the rules committee to withdraw its opposition to the administration's wages and hours bill.

At Speaker Bankhead's press conference, Chairman O'Connor (D-N.Y.) of the rules committee said the leadership had "exhausted every possible effort" to obtain sufficient votes in the committee to let the house consider the legislation.

"There is no possibility of the bill being considered by that method," he said.

Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Texas) went from the press conference to the house chamber and added his signature to a petition which, if signed by 218 members, would bring the wage-hour measure to the floor about mid-December. When the house adjourned yesterday, 133 members had signed.

Bankhead said he did not intend to sign the petition.

Washington—(P)—Organized labor's internal feud, some legislators said today, has lessened the chances for enactment of wage-hour legislation in the special congressional session.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, demanded that the bill be revised or another substituted. He stated his organization's position in a letter yesterday to Chairman Norton (D-N.Y.) of the house labor committee.

Horse members received last week a statement from John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization and of Labor's Non-Partisan League, urging enactment of the measure "without further delay."

As a result of the labor split, some representatives said, any campaign to force the labor standards bill to a house vote may be jeopardized. They argued that some of their colleagues might not want to appear to be taking sides in the labor dispute by signing a pending petition intended to compel the rules committee to release the legislation.

Need 218 Signatures

The petition had 133 signatures out of 218 needed to complete it. Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas said he would add his name unless the rules committee, in session today, voted to free the bill.

Southern Democrats and Republicans on the committee had prevented it from reaching the house floor ever since the senate passed it last summer.

Green criticized the bill on two counts:

1. It would set up an administrative board, similar to the labor relations board, to free the bill. He has accused of partiality to the CIO.

2. He said the federation believed provisions for a shorter work day and week should be incorporated by congress because of the "serious recession of business."

The measure would give the proposed labor standards board authority to fix a maximum work week as short as 40 hours and minimum wages as high as 40 cents an hour. It also would prohibit interstate shipment of goods made by child labor.

The labor committee has declined, 19 to 2, to recall the bill and rewrite it.

200 Deer Hunters Prepare for Trek Into North Woods

About 200 hunters from Outagamie county will leave for the north woods tomorrow for the next day or so to hunt deer. The number will be considerably less than last year because about 1,000 deer licenses were issued by County Clerk John E. Hantschel.

Deer season will be open Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Some hunters also will be seeking bear, the season being open the same three days as for deer.

The state conservation commission has called attention of hunters to the law prohibiting the possession or use of firearms in all areas within a half mile of any CCC camp, CCC side camps or Farm Security administration work camp.

DIRECTOR AND HEAD OF STATE CHAMBER

Directors of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce held their annual meeting yesterday in Milwaukee in connection with the first Congress of Wisconsin Business.

J. R. Whitman, left, of Appleton, was elected a director for the third district and R. S. Kingsley, of Kenosha, right, was named president of the state chamber of commerce.

A 10-point program was adopted at yesterday's meeting.

Wooden Horses Prance As Christmas Time Nears

"Gee-Gee" horses are appearing at a brisk center at the Appleton Toy and Furniture company on S. Lawrence street as the Christmas season and Santa Claus's down-the-chimney missions draw near.

The "Gee-Gee" horse, in case you haven't heard, is the Appleton firm's contribution to the toys of realism that are so popular with our present practical youngsters—like tractors that actually have pulling power, dolls that talk, and dogs that bark.

Not only does this device look like a horse but it rides like one. The child gets astride the wooden saddle, puts his feet in the wooden stirrups, and away he goes. A flat spring, a miniature of those used in cars, provides an up-and-down motion, the "gallop." But there's no danger of being forcibly dismounted or jammed against a fence, according to H. M. Kahn, manager and secretary-treasurer of the company.

Toy dining room suites, high chairs, and miniature furniture of all designs are other products made at the Appleton factory. The firm supplies schools throughout the country with kindergarten chairs and has shipped its products to South Africa, Puerto Rico, and Hawaii.

A "bumplust" high chair is another product of the company. Instead of lifting the tray over a baby's head when he's ready to be released—a process that often proves troublesome—all the mother must do is unloosen a fastener and slide the tray out. The high chair also has an adjustable step which can be lowered as the baby's legs lengthen—and raised when another one comes along.

Aldermen Consider 1938 Budget at Committee Meet

Aldermen met in a committee of the whole to consider various departmental estimates for the 1938 budget last night in city hall. Tentative figures for each budget item were compiled without considering next year's salaries.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., requested councilmen to be as conservative as possible and to keep the tax rate down in view of economic conditions in the nation. The committee adjourned until 7 o'clock tonight.

Kenosha Man Is Elected as Head Of Commerce Body

Wisconsin State Chamber Announces New 10-Point Program

Milwaukee—(P)—R. S. Kingsley, Kenosha, was elected president of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce at the annual directors' meeting held in connection with the first Congress of Wisconsin Business yesterday.

Karl S. Reynolds, of Milwaukee was re-elected executive vice president, and M. E. Baumbarger, Milwaukee, treasurer. Ben S. McGivern, Eau Claire, was named vice president.

Fred H. Clausen, of Horicon, vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, addressed the meeting on the subject of labor problems. He said:

"Industrial and business management will go along with unions if they and the government agree that the fundamental relation between employer and worker is one of co-operation; that wages must be paid in proportion to the amount of work done; that the right to work is not to be denied anyone because of membership or non-membership in any organization; that the right to strike must not be permitted to interfere with law enforcement; that sitdowns are intolerable; and that all parties to a labor contract must be held responsible."

Adopt Program

A 10-point program of the state chamber of commerce was announced. It would seek to encourage location of new industries in Wisconsin; aid those already located here; make a survey of manufacturing advantages of the state; engage in extensive advertising of Wisconsin recreational advantages; support legislation tending to 'consolidate units of government and prevent creation of new units with taxing and bonding powers, and oppose efforts to shift tax burdens or increase general taxes.

The following were named directors of the state chamber of commerce: 1 District 1—J. E. De Long of Waukesha; Charles J. Grebel of Milwaukee; District 2—S. A. Oscar of Madison, Robert L. Role of Monroe, Frank W. Sissen of LaCrosse; F. H. Runkel of Madison, Charles Tontont of Janesville; District 3—W. L. Ainsworth of Fond du Lac; Joseph J. Kronner of Oshkosh; J. R. Whitman of Appleton; District 4—C. G. Campbell of Kewaunee; A. C. Hansen of Green Bay; A. M. Van Douser of Wausau; District 5—W. J. Hodgkins of Ashland; J. B. Piotrowski of Shipewa Falls; A. J. Wentzel of Chippewa, and E. K. Hale of Eau Claire.

Report Rebel Cavalry Repulsed During Clash

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Border—(P)—Spanish government infantry was reported today to have driven insurgent cavalry from a sector of the Tagus river front, near Casa Maricantarrilla in Toledo province.

A Barcelona communique said the infantrymen pushed the mounted troops back more than a half mile, inflicting considerable losses, both sides opened field gun fire after the engagement.

Action in the Aragon sectors of northeastern Spain yesterday was limited to artillery warfare.

CADET KILLS SELF AFTER CHASE

An 80-mile-an-hour automobile chase over icy roads in Chicago suburbs ended in a crash, a shot, and the death of Warren Sinclair Stanley, 16, a student at the Missouri Military Academy in Mexico, Mo. Pursuing police said they found a pistol beside him in the stolen auto. A fervent love note found in his pocket led to the questioning of Loretta Harny, 15, who told investigators they had been sweethearts for about three years. They are shown together here.

Names Given Settlements By Pioneers of Wisconsin Show Faith, Love, Cynicism

By the Associated Press

What's in a name? Wisconsin's pioneers answered that question, when they decided what they would call their struggling little settlements.

Faith and despair, love of woman and homeland, love of the birds and animals and flowers of the forests, and often just plain cynicism and self-interest—all are reflected in those names.

Unknown and obscure, most of those settlements are today, seldom heard about.

It was a serious matter with the pioneers when they chose these names—all of communities still existing today: Asylum, Endeavor, Enterprise, Experiment, Hope, Grit, Unity, Pray, Holy Hill, Calvary, Loyal, Luck, Prospect, Progress, Friendship, Champion, Haven, Forward, Freedom, and Victory.

But what they too often found is indicated by Retreat, Hurricane, Avalanche, Trap City, Battle Slough, Clay, Big Flats, Fence, and Rattlesnake Den. Experiences like that gave the frontier wife full opportunity, and they crashed through with such gems as Forty Cents, Embarrass, Nabob, Ubel, Topsis, Buncombe, Eluge, Rube, Elo, Ino, Ono, Noso, Somo, Oulu, Gad, Koro, Jimmiller Jump River, Middle Inlet, Iron Belt, Arena, Bolt, Cable, East End, Saw Belle, Siren, Sun Rise, and Sunset.

Gentler influences are detected when came along such names as Grandfather Falls, Maiden Rock, Arbutus, Wild Rose, Arbor Vitae, Phantom Lake, Magnolia, Philox, Allouez, Arcadia, Star Valley, Risling Sun, Aztalan, Boaz, Castle Rock, Lovers Lane, Alpha, Alto, Imagination and a broader general knowledge are reflected there.

French and Indian

Many of the settlement names—with almost a countless number which are of French and Indian derivation—are distinctive to Wisconsin. Poy Sipi is one. The double name of Nelson and Cecil is another. And there are Thirty Daems, Globe Clark, Ayllonia, Ashippun, Athelstane, Tegarden, and Dico also to be found in this group.

Pioneers' wives undoubtedly contributed to the names of Ada, Alma, Amelia, Amy, Augusta, Beverly, Bonita, Caroline, Cornelia, Edith (ton), Eli, Ellen (boro), (Lake) Emily, (Lake) Elizabeth, Esther (Beach), Fern, Florence, Gertrude, Iola, Irma, Jane (ville), Lakes Marie, Laona, Lotaine, Loretta, Madge, Maribel, Marion, Melvina, Myra, Nora, Norma, Shirley, Theresa, Verona, and Viola.

From the animals came Bear, Trap, Beaver, Black Wolf, Buck Creek, Buffalo, Coon Valley, Elkhorn, Foxboro, Brown Deer, Twin Bears, and Moose.

From the air came Black Hawk (there was an Indian chief by that name too), Crane Eagle, Duck Creek, Lark, Pelican, Pheasant (Branch), Pigeon (Falls), and Turkey (Field).

Inspired by Waters

Rivers and lakes inspired Aquaca, Cascade, Cataract, Delta, Fountain (City), Flood Creek, Lake, Niagara, Brooks, River Falls and Nine Springs, not to omit Blue River, Black River, White River, Red River, Green Lake, and Yellowlake.

From the streams came Bass Bay, Clam Falls, Little Surgeons, Trout Lake, Pickerel, Pike, Turtle Lake and Whitefish Bay.

From under the ground came Silence, Iron Mountain, Copper River, Stateville, Steel, Goldendale and Leadmine, not to slight Slagpile. Borrowed from the precious stones were Diamond Bluff, Emerald, Opal, and Ruby.

Traced to the colors are Auburn, Black, Black Earth, Brownstone, Brunet, Blue Mound, White Mound, Red Mound, Green Valley, Amber, and Yellowstone.

Countries yielded Alaska and Norway, twice each, and Armenia, Bavaria, Batavia, British Hollow, Belgium, Denmark, Erin, Finn, Norse, Sweden, Peru and Poland. From cities, ancient and modern, came Athens, Attica, Troy, Sparta, Rome, Berlin, Brussels, Genoa, Moscow, Oslo, Stockholm, Paris, Bagdad, Brooklyn, Dallas, and Albany. There are 18 "New" something or other, and as many "Norths" and "West."

How strong was the influence of the early lumbering era in Wisconsin is shown by the many communities whose names are taken from the trees. Among them are Ashland, Balsam Lake, Bark Pit, Basswood, Beechwood, Birch, Branch, Cedar, Elm, Evergreen, Butternut, Cedar, Buds, Burr Oak, Norway, Sweden, Hickory, Maple, Oakwood, Pine Knob, Pulp, Red Cedar, Spruce, Tamarack, and Yellow Birch.

Some of the communities named are more specks on the maps, perhaps with only five residents. Many are without postoffices, never having achieved that distinction, or having lost it with shrinking populations and consolidations. Some names bear the stamp of stability, others indicate the names had little intention of lingering long.

Symphony to Hold Rehearsal Tonight

Thanksgiving Causes Change: Ticket Sale Reported Brisk

Because of Thanksgiving, the Appleton Symphony orchestra will hold a rehearsal tonight at the high school playhouse instead of Thursday night, Jay I. Williams, one of the directors, said today.

More than 50 musicians are now attending rehearsals of the orchestra and it is expected that the membership will increase still more before the concert season opens in January. The orchestra numbered about 45 last year.

Lorenz De Minter, chairman of the ticket drive, has reported brisk sales during the first two weeks. The tickets, priced at $1 for the two concerts, have been distributed to all members of the orchestra and four teams are competing in a sales contest.

The appearance of an outstanding vocalist or instrumentalist at each concert has been assured by the officers of the association and arrangements are now being made for the bookings.

Members of Parish to Give Open Card Party

Little Chute—Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Bell were guests of friends and relatives in Fond du Lac Sunday.

An open card party will be given by the members of St. John parish at the school hall Tuesday evening. Bridge, schafkopf and rummy will be played, prizes will be awarded and a lunch will be served.

Mrs. John Hammen, Main street, was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital Friday for treatment.

Paul Derks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Derks, Jr., submitted to a major operation at St. Elizabeth hospital, Monday. His condition is regarded favorable.

Federation Faction Wins LaCrosse Labor Election

La Crosse—(P)—By a vote of 57 to 31, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A. F. L.) yesterday won over the American Communications association local (CIO) in a state labor relations board ballot among La Crosse Telephone corporation employees to determine the bargaining agency for 122 persons who were eligible voters. Eight ballots were protested by the CIO local.

Pioneer Business Man Succumbs at Wausau

Wausau—(P)—Charles Helke, 83, dean of Wausau business man, died yesterday after an illness of several weeks. The pioneer was president of the Helke Furniture company, and operated a funeral service. A son, Carl, took over active management of the business a few years ago. Helke was prominent in the Odd Fellows lodge.

Dealers Must Pay $5 For Yule Tree License

Druggists to Meet At Trades School

Will Discuss Departmentizing the Retail Drug Business

"Departmentizing the retail drug business" will be the subject for discussion at a class meeting of Appleton pharmacists, Dec. 2 at the Appleton Vocational school. Only registered pharmacists are eligible to attend.

Edwin E. Schwager, Green Bay, a member of the state pharmacy board, opened the discussion of current problems in pharmacy at a meeting of the Pharmaceutical clinic held last Thursday at the school.

H. W. Spearbreaker, New London, gave a report on the recent conference at Shawano and S. H. Dretzka, Milwaukee, secretary of the state board, spoke on law enforcement.

Out of town men who attend last Thursday's meeting were: E. G. Sonnenberg, H. O. Haugh and A. V. Hedberg, all of Menasha; and William Sebald, Manawa. The class is conducted by Edwin J. Boberg, Eau Claire.

Scouts Will Camp at Gardner Dam Dec. 28

Boy Scouts of the valley country are giving thought to the winter camping period which will be held at Gardner Dam Dec. 28 to 31. Many troop members already have indicated to their scoutmasters they will attend the camp. Walter Dixon, scout executive, said yesterday that between 35 and 40 youths are expected.

Potato Growers Will Discuss Crop Quality

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Quality seed potatoes and their importance in the Wisconsin potato improvement program will be featured in a special Wisconsin Potato Day program when the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association holds its annual meeting at Rice Lake Dec. 16 and 17, according to J. G. Milward, secretary of the association.

Milward said he is working with potato growers and county agents in planning the program.

Officers of the association are A. F. Winkler, Clearwater Lake, president, James Isherwood, Plover, vice president, and Barron West, Sarona, Charles Liehe, Chippewa Falls, John Conradi, Phillips, Paul Bonach, Starks, J. W. Smith, Bryant, Harry Dixon, Pembine, William P. Miller, Sturgeon Bay, Ed Rath, Almond, and Reinhold Kressin, Rockfield, directors.

St. Mary Sixth Graders See Newspaper Published

Plain and Fancy Fixin's To Go With Turkey Dinner

BY MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

The well-dressed 1937 Thanksgiving dinner will boast a combination of oldtime favorites and several culinary newcomers.

First on many a family menu will be a soup or cocktail. Cranberry juice, cider, assorted fruit juices, diced fruits mixed with ginger ale, oyster, tuna, crab or lobster cocktails will all be served.

Cream of corn will be the soup careful cook will remember not to stuff the turkey too lightly, since stuffing expands and becomes soggy if it is wedged into the bird.)

If you'd like a change from white potatoes try a ring of wild brown or white rice filled with creamed mushrooms or giblet gravy. Candied sweet potatoes may be mashed and topped with honey and pecans or boiled, cut into bars and rolled in chopped salted peanuts.

Broccoli, asparagus, spinach, onions, cabbage, turnips and Brussels sprouts combine nicely with cooked chestnuts or mushrooms in a cream sauce. They are also excellent served with a lemon, egg, cheese or Hollandaise sauce.

Creole eggplant (tomatoes, onions, green peppers), tomatoes stuffed with tiny sausages, green peppers filled with corn or onions sprinkled with grated egg yolks will fit into any holiday meal.

A sherbet course is a help in a feast of Thanksgiving dimensions. Spiced fruit, cranberry sauce, jelly, cider punch, carrot strings, celery curls, pickles and olives all come in the catalogue of light variations.

The salad, if possible, should be made of greens—cress, chicory, endive or lettuce. A highly seasoned French or Roquefort cheese dressing is recommended. Jellied cranberry, fruit, ginger ale or cider salads are sometimes served. Since they require boiled salad dressing

4-H Members Will Attend Congress

Wisconsin Delegates to Take Part in Annual National Round-Up

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Reward for years of hard work will be received by 50 outstanding members of Wisconsin 4-H clubs this weekend when they attend the National Boys and Girls Club congress in Chicago.

Wisconsin's delegates, consisting of outstanding demonstrators, judges and winners of state and county contests will take part in the various contests and activities of the annual national club roundup from Nov. 27 to Dec. 4.

T. L. Bewick, state club leader, will head the Wisconsin delegation and assist in the week's program. Miss Grace Rowntree will serve on the national exhibit committee, while Miss Genevieve Amundson will aid in the style review contest. V. V. Varney will have charge of all the broadcasting activities at the congress.

Trip winners who will attend the congress as official delegates from Wisconsin include Harold Gullickson of Manitowoc county, Margaret Zempel of Waupaca county, and Gerhart Boss and Burdette Eason of Winnebago county, according to Bewick's lists.

City Police Interrupt Trip of Michigan Boys

An automobile trip for two 18-year-old runaway boys from Iron Mountain, Mich., ended here yesterday when they were picked up by Appleton police. The youths were driving a car owned by the father of one and are being held here pending their return to Iron Mountain.

'HELLO' MEANS ALL THINGS Chicago—(AP)—A visiting cowboy told a Chicago editor that "out my way if you don't say hello to folks on the second or third meeting they're suspicious or you'll have a fight on your hands."

The editor sent out a reporter to try rural cordiality on city folks. Here are the results of his cheery hellos:

Stout elderly woman—Pop-eyed, open-mouth stare.

Madison street bum—"Hey, bud, can you spare a guy two bits for supper?"

Pretty stenographer—"Say, what'dya think I am, anyway?"

Obese business man—"Starled pause and a mumbled 'must be nuts.'"

Schoolboy—"Uh-huh, hlo."

or mayonnaise, however, they are generally considered too rich. Pumpkin pie, cranberry tarts, baked or steamed puddings, or ice cream will make tasty desserts.

Mrs. Bernard Marcks Named Secretary of Jolly Kitchen Club

Black Creek—The Jolly Kitchen club held a meeting last week at the home of Mrs. William Kronz, route 3. Mrs. Bernard Marcks was elected secretary. Mrs. Andrew Fischer is the president.

The lesson on the buying of hostery and patterns, was given by Mrs. Herman Eberhard and Mrs. William Kronz.

Meetings will be held hereafter the first Wednesday evening of the month, the next meeting to be held with Mrs. Andrew Fischer.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Grollmus entertained the cast who took part in the play, "Johnny Grows Up," at the basement of St. John Evangelical church, Sunday evening. Monopoly and darts were played after which a lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Krinkel, Miss Clara Krinkel, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krinkel and son Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Krinkel, attended the funeral of Richard Kluge at Hortonville Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kluge and children and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kluge and children, were dinner and luncheon guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Lemke, route 2, Kaukauna.

A daughter was born Nov. 20 to Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Wagner. Miss Eunice Sasmann of Evanston Ill., was a weekend guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sasmann. Dinner guests on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Patterson and daughter Mae and Miss Ellen Patterson of Clintonville.

Motorist Uninjured as Auto Crashes Into Pole

Henry Tank, route 4, Appleton, was involved in a minor traffic accident on E. John street about 1:45 yesterday afternoon. He was going east on the street when he lost control of his machine, it was reported to police. The car broke off a telephone guy pole. Tank was uninjured.

Public Utilities Peace Plan Delay Has Been Costly

Administration Has Waited
And Lost Valuable Impetus to Recovery

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Just two years ago the public utilities and the administration conferred about a plan for peace between the industry and the government. The plan was as feasible then as it is today.

The cost of the delay has run into hundreds of millions of dollars. The utilities have shortages in facilities amounting to about $2,600,000,000. This could have furnished employment during the last year and could have taken up the slack produced by the gradual ending of pump priming with federal funds.

This week, the president is talking again with the utilities. The atmosphere has changed somewhat from two years ago. On very few occasions are being thrown out of work because the whole economic system is suffering from the Roosevelt depression almost as severely as it did from the Hoover depression.

The possibility that the utilities might have government competition withdrawn so that they can borrow money to build needed facilities has been discussed informally here for the last few weeks, but not until now has there been any concrete step taken toward the making of a peace compact between the utilities and business.

The basis of an adjustment of the controversy would seem to be the same as that which was outlined by this correspondent two years ago. It is interesting to reproduce what was written then so that some idea may be gained of how costly are political delays and crusades that ignore the public interest. Here is an excerpt from the dispatch referred to, which was dated Dec. 9, 1935:

"Peace between the utilities and the Roosevelt administration could have been made months ago and the nation could have benefited by more employment and industrial activity amounting to $3,500,000,000."

"The plan given to 'Mr. Roosevelt' was by no means the unanimous expression of the utility men but it was accepted informally by more than 60 per cent of the industry, and the chances are that the dissenters would have been brought into line had the administration shown any evidence of a willingness to adopt the proposals. These provided:

"First, the power industry would accept the administration's theory about lower electric light rates, and the utility companies would agree to file objective rates subject to the approval of the Federal Power commission.

"Second, if satisfactory rates were established in a given territory, the federal government would declare that there was no necessity for federal loans to municipalities therein.

"Third, the federal government would continue the development of hydroelectric projects but would not duplicate transmission lines or aid in the duplication of municipal distribution facilities.

"Fourth, the utilities would declare in favor of the passage of a federal law permitting reasonable regulation of holding companies; namely a law that would cure all the past evils, such as pyramided financing and interservice charges, etc.

"Fifth, the utilities would agree to spend $750,000,000 over and above last year's expenditures and would agree on a program for rural electrification.

"Sixth, a nation-wide appliance commission would be appointed which in view of the low objective rates would agree on the manufacture of appliances on a wholesale plan to electrify America. Arrangements would be made for something better than the electric farm and home authority in respect to

Many Visitors From Wisconsin See Their Congressmen at Work

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—There are almost as many Wisconsin visitors viewing the sluggish activities of the special session of congress as there are Badger members on the house floor.

Among the Wisconsin people who have been visiting in Washington are Clinton B. Ballard of Appleton and Madison and B. J. Welland of Appleton, who took a bus trip to Washington just for the fun of it; Mrs. Mabel Oakley Traiser of Osceola, who stopped in the capital on her way back to Wisconsin from a trip to Europe; George Little, formerly of Madison, who is now director of athletics at Fergus university; and H. C. Lapham, city manager of Kenosha, here for the mayors' conference, along with Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee.

Ballard celebrated his 78th birthday anniversary in the capital. A close friend of the elder Senator Robert LaFollette for many years, he regaled members of the Wisconsin delegation in congress with stories of early progressive days.

Edna Ferber, the author, according to one of the Wisconsin representatives, is indebted to Ballard for her first job.

She was living in Appleton, a high school student, according to the story, and was a friend of Ballard's daughter. It was through Ballard that Miss Ferber got a job on the Appleton Crescent.

long term paper that could be discounted at the banks."

Definition Needed

The foregoing plan was welcomed by some members of the president's official family, but opposed by others. The truth is the public ownership school had the upper hand then and didn't want peace with the utilities at all. Today the holding company law has been passed and various other things have taken place which would require modification of the original peace proposals. Thus there is needed a definition or amendment of the holding company act so that the country would know what is meant by "geographically integrated" systems of public utilities. The securities and exchange commission can hardly make an interpretation that fully covers the problem though an attempt might be made as a starter. In the end congress would have to act definitely or else investors would fear to put their money into a situation which might be upset by a regulatory body overnight.

This correspondent wrote also on Dec. 9, 1935:

"Even if the plan was rejected last January, it could be revived this January and congress could modify the existing law to make it valid. This would be the biggest single achievement toward economic recovery that could be made in the near future and probably would absorb more men than the Works Progress Administration which has been such a drain on the public treasury."

Today, even as two years ago, the same comments can be made. The administration has waited two years, the country has lost a valuable impetus to recovery, and petty politics and personal pride on the part of the administration together with the mistakes of the utility men in past years have all combined to do damage to the economic system of America. Again the public interest has suffered.

Increase Federal Funds for Trades Schools in State

Wisconsin to Match $172,000 Allotment for 6-Month Period

Washington—Wisconsin will have a total of $171,988.92, which the state has agreed to match, for expenditure on its vocational education program for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1937, the interior department has announced.

Although exact figures to show how much of an increase this is from the last federal appropriation were not available, officials said it is a sizable increase.

Representatives of the office of education were unable to say whether Wisconsin will receive a corresponding amount for the next six-month period, but it is likely that if the state can match the funds, it will receive the same amount.

Allotment of federal funds for vocational education has been held up for five months, officials explained, because of the huge increase congress authorized. Under the George-Elzey act, which expired in June, 1937, approximately $4,000,000 was authorized. The George-Deen act increased that amount to $14,000,000.

The president, in signing the interior department appropriations bill, said he was reluctant to approve such an increase, because he feared not all the states could meet the requirements to share in the appropriations.

The office of education sent out questionnaires to each of the states, to determine how much the states could spend for vocational education. After the George-Deen act was passed, states had a year in which to make their plans for using federal funds. Many, on the strength of the increased appropriation, have greatly enlarged their vocational educational programs.

According to the office of education, each state is getting, in the allotments just made, as much as they requested.

Orders Filter in With Indications Of Steel Upswing

Believe Further Recession
In Buying, Production
Will be Small

Indications are appearing in the steel market to support a belief that the bottom has been reached and further recession in buying and production will be small. Last week an accumulation of orders by Pittsburgh mills caused an increase in activity and Chicago mills will operate at a higher rate this week for the same reason, says Steel.

Canvass by steel producers has revealed that in many instances consumers are operating at rates close to those of last spring, using stocks accumulated through mid-year, and refraining from further buying until the general situation has cleared. It is apparent that consumers have more steel in stock than had been realized and this is responsible in part for the present dearth of buying.

Most steel producers find buying this month is at a lower rate than in October but in most cases consumers require prompt delivery, indicating immediate need. Continued absence of automobile builders from the market is an important factor in present dullness.

Some additional business from oil companies is in prospect, two pipe lines of moderate length being considered and inquiry for a tanker requiring 4,000 tons is expected soon.

35 Per Cent of Capacity
Steelworks operations on a national scale are down 4 points to 35 per cent of capacity. Pittsburgh advanced 4 points to 36 per cent and Cincinnati 10 points to 25 per cent. Birmingham at 54 per cent was down 7.5 points to 27.5 per cent. Eastern Pennsylvania down 3 points to 35, Youngstown 1 point to 42, Wheeling 11 points to 43, Cleveland 20 points to 15, Buffalo 4.5 points to 23, St. Louis 18 points to 15 and Detroit 11 points to 71.

In spite of their unfavorable financial situation railroads are entering the market with what promises to be a fair rate of buying of rails and rolling stock. The Southern Pacific has distributed 25,322 tons of rails among three markets, Louisville & Nashville has bought 21,000 tons and rail inquiries are expected shortly for about 75,000 tons from two western and an eastern line. Some locomotive inquiry is also before builders. A western plan to buy or build 5,000 freight cars has reached an assembly stage. Early favorable action on the request for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates undoubtedly would bring considerable buying at once.

1938 Contract Prices
Tin plate producers are expected to announce contract prices for 1938 in a short time. Demand for this material is holding up fairly well, in spite of the usual seasonal lag, miscellaneous package containers making up to some degree for smaller demand for vegetable packages.

Automobile production last week was 85,787 units, practically the same as the preceding week, when 85,325 cars were manufactured. General Motors produced 40,900, compared with 45,110; Chrysler 26,700, compared with 22,100 and Ford 3,525, compared with 2,850. The total for all others was 14,672, compared with 15,465. The preceding week, Ford has reached an assembly speed of 1,500 daily, the highest attained on his 1938 models. Closing of contracts for close to 500,000 tons of steelmaking scrap for export to the European scrap cartel's member countries covers scrap to be shipped largely during first half 1938 as the cartel now has about 200,000 tons on contract for shipment this year. At the announced price of $16 to $16.50, North Atlantic ports, and $1 to $1.50 less for South Atlantic and Gulf ports, for No. 1 steel it represents a drop of $5 per ton from the previous purchase by the cartel. It is understood most of the tonnage will be No. 2 steel, at $1 a ton lower than No. 1. With scrap at present about $9 per ton lower than the high point of the year and about $11 below current prices of pig iron many dealers believe it a good speculation to hold tonnage for a better price when steel production is resumed on a better scale. In continued absence of buying scrap Steel's composite last week declined 33 cents, to $13.08, which is $9 per ton below the composite price at the beginning of April. The iron and steel composite was lowered 3 cents, to $38.90 by scrap weakness. Finished steel composite is unchanged at $61.70.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — A movie gag man must be brazen and shameless, and have a hide thick as an elephant's. Otherwise—in a gag conference—he'll blush and be confused and lose the opportunity to contribute something that might possibly be funny.

Sat in on a gag session for the new Laurel and Hardy feature. It's about a couple of guys with a better mousetrap, many better mouse-traps. The traps are ingenious, nutty, and Rube Goldbergish, each designed to exterminate a mouse humanely.

The session, when it gets under way finally after a general informal discussion of who wrote which music in what musical comedy 20 or 30 years ago, with side bets on the matter, is called to order — if any — by Stan Laurel. He comes in, settles down at his desk, and puts his feet up. Oliver Hardy is absent, and this now I know it is why he's the fat one. He hasn't anything to go with the gag sessions.

Looking For Laughs

Stan is neatly dressed in grey business suit: Felix Adler, over the davenport, is coatless. Pretty soon he has loosened up his tie, too. Jimmy Parrott sits in a corner. Charlie Rogers, who's been with Stan since his old days with the Fred Karno troupe (Chaplin was in it then too) paces around coatless, in a vivid red shirt. Art Duquette, the script clerk, hovers nearby, waiting to "make a note" if anything's said that Stan thinks is worth noting.

Felix Adler is telling a yarn about his neighbor's kid when Stan, without ado, replies cryptically: "We gotta get rid of the car," and then most of the faces present drop. (This is business boys.)

Follows some discussion of ways and means of getting rid of the car, but they don't decide anything. They've got to get names for those mousetraps. "Something cute, that'll fit into a song, and yet not give away the gag in the trap," specifies Stan.

Out of the silence comes a suggestion. It's terrible. Another that brings a smile to Laurel's face. Still another that brings a laugh. Felix Adler makes a pun, so terrible that he and all the rest break out laughing. "That's so lousy I have to laugh at it myself," he says. "Everything comes out at a time like this," explains Charlie Rogers. "We don't hold anything back."

It's true — they don't. Adler makes more "tries" than anybody. He gives his gag and then laughs. He-ha. The first ha is loud and strong. If nobody else laughs, the second ha is hollow and sour, dying in his throat. But trying often he gets (I think) a better batting average in the end.

"It ghosts to show you," contributes someone. Laughter breaks in to the general gloom. Anything ghosts here—they've got me doing it now.

Just to experience first-hand how Adler feels when one of his gags freezes, I offer one, because under the rules anybody present can play. I write out my contribution, hand it to Adler. He is not amused. He hands it to Laurel, who is not amused. By that time, neither am I. I wanna go way back and sit down. But a gag man—his hide is thick. He can—and must—take it and come up with another gag that will probably get the same reception.

Be Extra Careful about STUBBORN COLDS

Relieve Their Misery this PROVED Way

TOO often, the cold that "hangs on" is a result of neglect, and neglect is always risky. Be extra careful of a stubborn cold, of course. But the safest course is to be careful of all colds. Don't experiment. Relieve their misery this doubly proved way.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

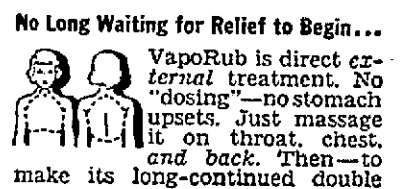

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin... VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no stomach upsets. Just massage it on throat, chest, and back. Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warm cloth.

Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by body warmth, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm, eases irritation and coughing, helps break local congestion. And long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working.

NOTE: If there is much irritation and coughing, or the air-passages feel clogged with heavy mucus or phlegm, even stronger vapor action is helpful. Four boiling water in a bowl, melt a teaspoonful of VapoRub in it, and inhale the steam-vapors for several minutes.

'Brain Trusters' Hired To Help State Governor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The employment of academic experts, or "brain trusters," to assist in the administration of the increasingly intricate problems of modern government has attracted national attention in Washington.

That Wisconsin has its own little band of "brain trusters" in its own state capital has largely escaped attention.

That the LaFollette administration is reverting to a policy begun during the reign of the senior Robert M. LaFollette almost forty years ago has been noted this year, and is now acknowledged at the executive office. The capitol, half a mile removed from University hill at the University of Wisconsin, is drafting professors to help in the job of government.

More than a dozen of the most prominent of the university's teachers are now actively serving the state as advisors and administrators under the capitol dome. Moreover, with a public administration specialist, C. A. Dykstra as the university's head, this trend is expected to become even more pronounced, for Dykstra feels that the state government and the state capitol should be in close cooperation.

Political Science Professor A survey of state personnel shows that at present many of the university's leading lights are included.

John M. Gaus, professor of political science, and a national authority on public administration is one of Governor LaFollette's closest advisors and took a large part in drafting the governmental reorganization bill which will shake up the capitol commissions and bureaus.

In the law school, Dean L. K. Garrison, and Professors Nathan P. Zeislinger and W. G. Rice assist in drafting many of the LaFollette legislative proposals. Both Rice and Zeislinger serve on the legal staff of the state labor relations board. Professor Edwin E. Witte, member of the board and chairman of the university department of economics, has long been connected with the state government, including the jobs of secretary of the industrial commission, and chief of the legislative reference library.

Elizabeth Brandeis, instructor in economics and daughter of the United States supreme court justice, was responsible for the drafting of Wisconsin's unemployment insurance act, many of the labor laws, and the recently revised child labor statute. She is the wife of Paul Raushenbush, director of unemployment compensation, and also a former state university teacher.

Prepared Recommendation William H. Spohn, lecturer in the law school, and Professor John H. Kolb, rural sociology expert, prepared the recommendations which resulted in the sweeping public welfare reorganization act. Dr. W. F. Lorenz, university psychiatrist, is a new member of the state board of corrections.

Professor Harold M. Groves, teacher of economics and taxation expert, assists in the preparation of tax bills, recently resigned from the state tax commission, and two years ago was a Progressive leader in the state senate. Professor John L. Gillin, criminologist, is a member of Wisconsin's pardon board, while various experts in the engineering and agricultural colleges constantly work with state departments on problems which affect them jointly.

Thus is a system first started by the late President C. R. Van Hise and Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., once more put into effect.

The rampages, it is concluded, are sufficient to affect the climate of some portions of the Atlantic coast. They do not, the board reports, indicate any reason for believing the Gulf Stream is permanently shifting.

THE IMPORTANCE OF STRONG LEADERSHIP

Some of Mr. Roosevelt's acts are in direct opposition to long settled liberal principles.

But there aren't enough men in congress of Senator Wheeler's character to expose the errors of the White House.

Long before Mr. Roosevelt became president Wisconsin liberalism gave strong support to an idea that runs in direct contradiction to the corporate surplus or job destruction tax with which the administration is now weighted.

Wisconsin even passed a special law conferring authority upon the Public Service Commission to prevent public utilities from paying out all their earnings to stockholders. Our capital at Madison resounded with solemn liberal voices warning the people that corporations that were milked by their stockholders were unable thereafter to insure steady employment during troubled times and likewise incapable of expending the necessary moneys to provide excellent service to the public.

The Post-Crescent supported this liberal doctrine on a dozen occasions. It supposed the liberals were genuine. It may go a step further and say it still thinks they were. It saw this principle put in operation and thereupon became all the more attached to it. It witnessed orders of our Public Service Commission prohibiting utilities from paying dividends and compelling them to fortify their cash balances, provide assurance for various forms of bondholders, secure certainty to their employees and excellence to the public service.

Yet as soon as Mr. Roosevelt brought forth his bill at Washington which has overridden the Wisconsin law and smashed it into bits we witnessed the Wisconsin liberals swallowing it whole.

What is liberalism in Wisconsin, it seems, isn't very good for the rest of the nation.

THE MIGHTY AND THE MICE

To Jack Chisholm, a teller in the treasurer's office at Chicago, came a rude shock last week, a shock that almost bowled him over. He was convicted of appropriating to his own use the mere pittance of $3200 belonging to the public.

Mr. Chisholm has not forgotten Robert, The Sweitzer, who put something like $400,000 into his jeans and still strolls the Avenue whirling his cane and never forgetting the bouquet in his button hole.

Mr. Chisholm had a heart. He didn't want to tear the treasury into pieces. All he craved was a few good times, about $3200 worth. In other words, he was a piker, a tin horn bamboozler, and the jury treated him with disdain and contempt.

But, Robert, The Sweitzer, was a different sort. As the jurors heard his story unfolded, $50,000 invested here, $100,000 there, they leaned back in their chairs and gasped "What a Man!" Their admiration went up, not only at the amount, but at Robert's nonchalance. When The Great Sweitzer said "Four Hundred Thousand—what of it—I'll repay it some day" the jury almost applauded. Here was the quintessence of confidence. And when the prosecutor intimated that the day Robert would pay was somewhere about the year 3000, the jury became enamored of this remarkable man, found him not guilty and joined him in snapping fingers and sneering lustily at a prosecutor who would try to jail a fellow of that calibre.

Chisholm, we hope, like pikers the world around, has learned his lesson. If not, his fifteen-year term in Joliet will give him a chance to soak it in.

In the meantime, sparrows may watch eagles soaring by, but better not try their feasts.

THE KLAN ABROAD

Of course there is nothing native to America about the Ku Klux Klan excepting its name.

Similar organizations have reared just as ugly heads in perhaps every country under the sun.

Just recently the Klan has stirred itself to life in Sicily and has spread its shadow over France. It is interesting to note the treatment accorded it in those two countries because their philosophies of government are fundamentally different.

In Sicily the Klan is called the Mafia. Originally the Mafia was said to have been organized as a patriotic society. But patriotism of a secret nature that has a spleen and vents it in the way of "justice" is merely crime dressed up in respectable clothes.

Mussolini recently brought Mafia leaders into court. Chains were upon their ankles. Terrorizing the countryside is not a popular pastime under the rule of Rome. Men who have the ambition to become popular idols or great statesmen have not been encouraged to join the Mafia figuring on its support while they denounced its criminal instincts and actions.

In France the Klan is known as the Cagoulaards or the Hooded Ones. There, too, the smooth sheen of a patriotic garment was cast around the child at birth, but a form of patriotism that did not believe in obeying the laws. France, completely opposite to Italy in governmental structure, nevertheless struck out at the Cagoulaards with all the indignation of intelligent democracy. They are to be rooted out. Their leaders are to be exposed, shamed, imprisoned.

But in America we do not follow either Italy or France. We must be original even if we act a Scaramouch. Something like the Eskimoes reported by Hendrik Hudson's sailors who found them worshipping the devil because they thought it best to curry the evil one's friendship and thus soften his vicious practices, we exalt Klan leaders to the highest pinnacle in the nation.

"So fill 'er up boys, a sody cop'll do,
And drink a little toast to the kluck-a-doodle-do.
We'll drink a little, grin and wink sort o' sly—
It may have been tricky, but the boys got by."

THE BUCKMAN INVESTIGATION

The swift action of the circuit court at Madison in appointing a receiver for the Buckman Company in an effort to conserve its assets and ascertain the facts regarding widespread charges of fraud against it was a sample of Wisconsin justice that may ordinarily be depended upon to proceed with the caution necessary for justice but the certainty required to hunt down and punish wrongdoers.

The public will continue in its accustomed course to withhold final judgment until all involved have been heard but it cannot withhold the conviction that a close and sweeping investigation is called for as soon as a considerable stream of evidence has pointed in the direction of widespread misconduct.

Fraud has certain characteristics mearer by far than many offenses that are rated more dangerous to the state and for which a higher punishment is declared.

The chicken thief crawling along on his belly in a backyard, the second story man shinning up a back porch, the pick-pocket worming his way through a crowd at a game—all these somehow preserve some essential of self-respect; but the man who lays plans to obtain the confidence of the trusting and filch from them the fruits of their toil preserved for the inevitable winter of life, that man has drifted to a very low level in the human scale.

Unfortunately the inquiry into the Buckman Company is something of a national symptom. Similar complaints are under investigation against similar companies in other states. Like the rash that comes with the measles, this condition cannot be sidestepped because it points to something fundamentally wrong.

And the trouble is too important to the safety of the body politic for America to do aught but abandon politics in its solution.

SEC, which supervises the authority to originate security issues, was a great stride in protecting the public from fraud. But its fundamental concept is in forcing the truth to the surface so that people may know of the hazards involved.

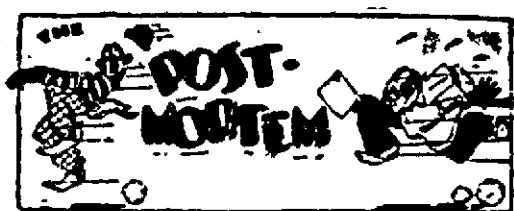

Obviously it accounted for only half the job. The other half involved those who disposed of securities to the people, certainly of equal importance to SEC.

About all that has been done in regard to this essential half is the elimination of bankers from security sales in order to exclude the impossible case of Mr. Jones, president of the Jones National Bank, approving for security purposes corporate issues that were fathered by the same Mr. Jones, president of the Jones Securities Company.

The elimination of bankers from the sales end of securities disposition was excellent, but not enough. It is still plain that financial buccanniers as heartless as a cobra are sailing the investment seas. This specie, operating only for its own financial gain and with ruthless disregard for the welfare of its clients, must be regarded with the same peace of mind as we would look upon a drunkard treading around a bottle of nitroglycerine.

The Wisconsin courts have the problem of dealing with those involved in an immediate case. But the lawmaking bodies of the nation must deal with the problem uprooted to view in an effort to prevent so far as possible the recurrence of sad and sordid stories. Something more assuredly can be done than to act swiftly and decisively as the Wisconsin authorities have upon the first appearance of evil.

Much might be gained by heavy bonds required of security houses, much more by critical care in licensing only those of dependable character. And the value of insistent prosecution of wrongdoers is great. But that involves many factors of sternness which are often lacking, sometimes in shambling juries, sometimes in soft-headed governors who think they are merely soft-hearted.

A WEEK from tomorrow is the first of the month when, in addition to the bills, a lot of us get our semi-monthly wages . . . a lot of us, also, will be having the Social Security tax deducted from the wages . . . every time this happens I get displeased because I was paying enough in the way of taxes before this one came along . . . a lot of people will now rise to point out that I am only being made to save money for my old age and am not being taxed . . . this, of course, is more New Deal salve . . . money that we are saving up for our old ages must, if it is to help us later, be invested in money-making enterprises, must be aiding in the economic development of the nation, must be providing capital to produce goods and keep men employed . . . in short, it must multiply itself in the only way money can multiply itself—by working . . . the Social Security tax money, however, is not put to work in the only way money can be employed, to provide for the future . . . it is being used for current political expenses by the simple process of being exchanged for government bonds which are in fact, simply I.O.U.'s . . . people put up the money that is used to chase non-working I.O.U.'s and which must be redeemed, beginning in 1942, to pay off those who will be eligible for Social Security checks . . . there will be no reserve fund of working money to meet the I.O.U.'s, but of course they must be paid . . . and who do you suppose is going to pay them? . . . you are . . . with taxes to pay off debts that were supposed to have been paid by previous taxes . . .

Jonah—

The duck season is over, the pheasant season came and went, and pretty soon the deer season will be over. Then I'll tear the rest of the leaves off the calendar. They don't amount to nothing.

I told my wife if I got killed this time deer hunting, she should let me know and I'll come home at once.

The feller what said—"Hell is paved with good intentions" had the situation sized up all right from life's pathway. Cause one of our neighbors got on a 3 day drunk and some of us fellers milked his cows and when he sobered up and the cows didn't give a lot of milk, he thought, some one stole it, 'cause there was a printed sign in his barnyard next day that read—"ANY ONE FOUND IN THIS BARNYARD IN THE NIGHT TIME WILL BE FOUND DEAD IN THE MORNING."

An' there's lots of fellers complaining again about hard times. Of course I always remind them of way back in Hoover's time when my friend Pat came from Dakota and I asked him how times was in Dakota. "Why, for a lousy nickel, Pat says, for a lousy five cents a bushel you can buy every bushel of oats or barley they is in Dakota. Course it cost 6 cents a bushel to thresh it and the man what's only got 5,000 bushel aint so bad off as the man what's got 10,000.

MY GRANDMOTHER'S COOK-BOOK

The pages are yellowed, the print is dim. The covering torn from the paper leaves. An old, old book, like an ancient hymn, Awakens an echo where Fancy grieves.

So long you have lain in your quiet bed. It was with a start that I saw your name. Above this book you have bent your head. And over it smiled when Grandfather came.

The recipes written in faded script Were given you many long years ago. I see you, beautiful, eager-lipped. As you laid the cloth in the firelight glow.

You acted as family doctor, too. These formulas witness your loving care! So many tasks for your hands to do. And yet you had patience and love to share!

My Grandmother's cook-book! It does seem odd To think that your handwriting should survive. When you are gone far away with God, And only your spirit is alive!

READING IN BED

From the depth of his depravity a correspondent asks for an article on reading in bed, and complains that after 30 minutes of it his eyes become so tired he can no longer read. The reading lamp in back of him has a 75 watt blue bulb and he wonders whether there are new reading glasses that might correct that condition. (W. K.)

Mark Twain, according to his biographer, not only read in bed but did a great deal of his writing there. I never quite believed it till I suspect Mr. Clemens pretended that was his custom when he got caught lying abed by an occasional early noonday visitor who couldn't be excluded—say a publisher or an editor or one of his wealthy in-laws. Dissimulation of that sort would be justified, wouldn't it? Two species of fowl will be rigidly barred from the Elysian bowling greens, I hope: birds that prate about their daily bathing and tooth brushing and early rising dotts. I mean the pests who insist on being up and noisily doing before the host or the community ordinarily wakens.

An hour or possibly two hours should be the limit of night reading or study for any one whose occupation is sedentary. More than this is rather a strain on the eyes. One who does honest work, especially outdoor work, or one who gets a fair amount of open air exercise daily, may read for perhaps three hours in the evening without excessive fatigue.

The light described by the correspondent is not a good reading light. Such blue light is trying to the eyes. Better a frosted or opal bulb of not over 60 watts in an adjustable lamp three or four feet above the reading page. This lamp should not be under a dark dome or shade. If it has any dome or shade it should be yellowish or translucent white to shed part of the light on the surroundings.

Reading in a spotlight in a darkened room is more tiring than reading in a softly illuminated room.

Main objection to reading in bed is the difficulty of illuminating the page. Whatever position the reader is in, the source of illumination must always be behind the plane of vision. If the reader is in the recumbent position the lamp should be close to the floor, not on the head of the bed. Most persons who read in bed really read sitting. A good bed is the most uncomfortable reading chair imaginable. Indispensable adjuncts of reading in bed are a couple of efficient nurses or attendants to take turns adjusting the bed and the occupant, at five minute intervals, to prevent cramps and subluxations.

Daytime reading in bed requires that the bed be placed with head next the window or between two windows, so that the daylight coming through the windows will not glare in the patient's eyes.

To those who are not confined to bed, I would suggest that everything be made ready for the reading done in a comfortable chair. Then when zero hour comes, roll into bed and go into your belly breathing. Chances are you'll never remember whether you finished the sixth infinitesimal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Contour

Three months ago had eye tooth extracted. Tooth on either side of it had been out a long time. Now as we worried because my face has sunk so on that side (I. Y.)

Answer—You should have an artificial tooth or denture installed immediately after extraction of one or more teeth.

Multiple Neuritis

Son confined to bed and unable to use limbs, from alcohol, neuritis, three months standing. (Mrs. W. W. S.)

Answer—See that he receives daily four or five ounces of wheat germ, in one recipe or another. It may be fixed in with flour, half and half, in any recipe calling for flour. Extreme deprivation of vitamin B (while eating and drinking food and taking little or no food) is the cause of alcoholic neuritis. Wheat germ richest food source of vitamin B. Brewer's yeast dried is still richer source.

Your Birthday

If November 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 A. M. to 12:15 P. M., from 2:15 to 4:15 P. M., and from 8:15 to 10:15 P. M. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 A. M., from 6:15 to 8:15 P. M., and from 10:15 P. M. until midnight.

You cannot afford to be too busy to recognize some of the beautiful things that will be observable this day. By being unmindful of what is going on around and about you, you might suffer a decided loss of some kind. It might be well not to accept what people say too literally, for much is likely to be said in the way of politeness only. The little or no sincerity back of it. The imagination of the average person is apt to be exceptionally lively this day, so many fanciful tales are likely to be narrated. However, many facts, much stranger than fiction, perhaps will be told, and in some cases, unfortunately, are going to be doubtless. A good deal of good, sound advice is likely to be offered, so consider carefully suggestions made to you, because one of them might save you from a lot of trouble. Married and engaged couples, as well as those whose courtship is progressing satisfactorily, ought to be careful to give no offense by questioning the truthfulness of any statement made this day.

If a woman and November 24 is your birthday, whatever responsibilities might be thrust upon you, probably will be discharged in a thoroughly efficient manner. You must never question your ability to complete successfully with other people in your line of activity. You conserve your energy, thereby frequently giving strangers the impression that you lack it, but when the occasion arises you display a dynamic spirit. You are not likely to believe in having more than one iron in a fire, so whatever you undertake ought to be done exceptionally well. The lecture platform, stage, radio broadcasting, school room or selling field ought to provide the right sphere of activity for you. A congenial husband and a home of your own, are the best mediums for you to find the greatest amount of happiness.

The child born on November 24, is generally a very lively, fun-loving, youngster. A fertile imagination may cause it to do a great amount of harmless romancing during its adolescence. When childhood merges into youth, this child as a rule becomes very dependable and ambitious.

If a man and November 24 is your natal day, you are probably in every respect a good sportsman, and prove it by your actions daily. As a musician, poet, author, banker, manufacturer or broker success may make you an outstanding figure locally or nationally. Successful People Born on Nov. 24: Henry K. Oliver, Musician. CONSERVATION AND THE CONSTITUTION

Editor Post-Crescent, The Superior Telegram under recent date of Nov. 9, reports that Daniel Thibodeau, 5011 E. Third street, was arrested by game wardens for possession of a high powered rifle. He was fined $25.00 by Municipal Judge F. S. Parker. In the Telegram dated Nov. 11 it reports that Leonard Pollari, Maple, was given a 30 day work farm sentence for possessing shotgun shells loaded with shot larger than No. 1 fine. The Telegram dated Nov. 12 reports that Oscar Vandenberg, town of Summich, paid $25.00 and cost for having in his possession a rifle larger than a .22 calibre in territory inhabited by deer. All of these arrests, according to the Telegram, were made by Game Warden McNaughton and assistants.

Assuming these reports to be correct may I inquire: When these alleged game violators were brought before the judge, did he use the Wisconsin statutes as his guide, or did he appear before the defendants with the little green covered booklet published by the Wisconsin Conservation Commission? It appears to have been the latter, for honest judges familiar with and using the statutes and the constitution as his guide could have convicted any of these men.

We hear much about corruption in relation to courts and public servants, but nowhere does it appear to be more flagrant than in our conservation system. Is it a fact, or does it only appear to be, that wardens generally arrest only those whom they are quite sure do not know their rights as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Wisconsin.

For the benefit of those who may not know the facts I would like to call their attention to Article II of the Amendments to the Constitution of the United States which states: "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed. And for the benefit of those who have had their guns or other property taken from them by game wardens I quote Article IV of Amendments of the Constitution of the United States: . . . No person shall be deprived of . . . property without due process of law. And to have some hired snapper demand that you hand over your gun just because he wears a tin star can hardly be considered due process of law.

It looks to me as though our worst game law violators are the game wardens. Do they pay for the property they confiscate? By what authority do they make a majority of their arrests? Is the Conservation Commission a law making body? The constitution says, Sec. 1, Article IV: The legislative power shall be vested in a senate and assembly. And Sec. 17, Article IV: The style of the laws of the state shall be "the people of the State of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows," and no law shall be enacted except by bill.

In the booklet published by the Conservation Commission instead of quoting actual laws, we find on almost every page the following: "Sec. 30 and 31 and 32 and the favorite number seems to be the formidable appearing, "BG-SG-UGB-262." (I believe they've got something there)

We have here in Burnett county an organization of which the writer is president, known as the People's Protective Conservation League. The purpose of this organization is to protect our personal liberties granted us under the Constitution of the United States against infringements by any group of political bureaucrats, to secure same game laws, and protection not only for the game and fish, but for the sportsman and his dog as well.

Conservation is an outrage perpetrated against the real sportsmen. It is time for those in authority to get together and organize against what appears to be the biggest racket in the state, namely, the conservation set-up.

The Conservation Department and the Conservation Commission by their action have demonstrated to us clearly that they have no respect for the real sportsman, nor for any law, be it state or federal, just because you have your big rifle in your possession. However, if a game warden arrests you for it he is violating a law and you can sue for false arrest.

The Conservation Department and the Conservation Commission are supposed to be your servants and not your bosses, and I feel it is high time to discharge these unfit servants, and get some new ones that have a little respect for the law and for the people they're to serve.

All of the organizations working against the present conservation set-up are demanding the restoration of legislative power in setting the game laws for each season. The game laws changed every fifteen minutes like it is now.

To all you fellows who have been taken for a ride, and to you fellows they are planning to take for a ride, I can only give this advice, don't let that political bunch bluff you out. Fight for your constitutional rights, the orders handed down by the Conservation Commission are wrong. The paper they are printed on. We elect law makers, they are not appointed.

Yours for good sportsmanship, C. W. PETERSON.

Madison—What may develop into the most interesting and significant episode in the recent history of state politics was born in Madison last weekend.

While official spokesman of the Progressive party, target for the coalition campaign which is now under way, the candidate was scornfully as "mere talk which won't get anywhere," neutral observers agreed that the movement is one which will bear watching.

Convention Sidelights
Aside from the real business of the coalition convention, the meeting furnished plenty of gossip on state affairs.

For instance, delegates from the Fox River Valley counties reported that Outagamie county's Senator Mike Mack, Republican, is definitely in the race for the Eighth district congressional seat.

Whether Mack is interested in, or favors the coalition movement, he has to date declined to say, but some of his friends here last weekend said he would welcome coalition Democratic votes in his bid for the office held for many years by George J. Schneider of Appleton, Progressive.

Jerry Fox Again
Reports a few months back that Calumet county's Jerome T. Fox, former Democratic legislative floor-leader and son of Leo P. Fox who has ruled Calumet county Democracy for many years, will be persuaded to enter the Sixth district congressional campaign, were also prevalent on the convention floor.

It is said that a group of Calumet county and Winnebago county Democrats are trying to persuade Fox, now counsel for the Wisconsin division of HOLC, to oppose Congressman M. K. Reilly in the Democratic primary, despite the fact the Reilly recently came, to Chilton on a visit which was accepted as an announcement that he would like to retain his seat.

Calumet county Democrats, incidentally, are not unanimous in supporting the coalition movement, according to Harry Stumpf, an officer of the county organization, who served as secretary of the coalition convention here last Saturday.

Knauf Is For Coalition
Another Calumet county political figure William Knauf of Chilton, vice chairman of the Republican state central committee and long a prominent leader of the Republicans, was present at the Saturday fusion meeting.

Despite the fact that his colleagues on the Republican state committee ignored the meeting, Knauf was an interested visitor, although he refrained from the discussions.

Friends, including Joseph Seftenberg of Oshkosh, invited Republican spokesmen, quoted Knauf as favoring wholeheartedly the move for a formal union of Republicans and Democrats.

Cagey members of the legislature attended the meeting in a body, but professed to be merely observers present in Madison on other business, which by a coincidence happened to tally with the date of the convention.

But while many of the convention delegates were officeholders, or defeated candidates for office who may have an interest in becoming candidates again, there were also a substantial number of men who are motivated less by the opportunity for office holding than by the opportunity they see to remove the administration of state government from the hands in which it now reposes.

Progressives, Incorporated
Presence of an outspoken delegation of Milwaukeeans, members of an organization which they call anti-LaFollette Progressives, gave the coalition meeting an unexpected turn.

Denouncing the LaFollette-Socialist combination and Governor LaFollette for "selling us out lock, stock and barrel," the delegation insisted in equal representation on the fusion executive committee be-

Poultry and Home Show Is Attended By Large Crowds

Clintonville Lions and Future Farmers Sponsor Event

Clintonville—Large crowds attended the Poultry and Home Show Thursday and Friday evenings at the Clintonville armory. The event was sponsored by the local Lions club, in cooperation with the Future Farmers' organization. A large number of prizes were awarded for the poultry exhibits.

Clintonville Rotarians did not meet Monday noon as is their custom, but will hold a joint meeting with the Marion Rotary club here on Tuesday evening. Their guest will be Dr. Charles Barker of Grand Rapids, Mich., a well-known Rotary lecturer. Following a dinner at Hotel Marston, the members will adjourn to the Clintonville armory, where a public address will be given by Dr. Barker.

A large number of Clintonville persons plan to go to Appleton Friday evening, Nov. 26, when a "Major Bowes" amateur program featuring Clintonville talent will be staged at the Appleton Masonic temple. A 6:30 dinner will open the evening's program. Richard Milbauer and Abner Frensdorff of this city are in charge of the talent from here and have already secured 17 entries. Walter A. Olsen, president and general manager of the Four Wheel Drive Auto company, will be the principal speaker at the program.

Mr. and Mrs. David Shivel, Jr., of Waukegan, Ill., have arrived for a two weeks vacation here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Shivel and Mr. and Mrs. James Smiley.

Mrs. T. A. Landon and Mrs. G. W. Spang were hostesses to 28 guests at a 1 o'clock luncheon Monday at Hotel Marston. The afternoon was spent in playing bridge, honors being awarded to high score at each of the seven tables; while a traveling prize went to Mrs. R. A. Greb.

Returns To His Home
Gilbert Buckbee, who was injured in an automobile accident near Madison on Saturday, Nov. 13, returned Sunday evening to his home in this city. During the last week he was confined to the Methodist hospital in Madison, where he received treatment for a fractured arm, broken finger, and severe head lacerations.

Fred Lang, who suffered fractures of both knee caps in the same accident, will be confined to the Madison hospital for several more weeks before he can be brought to his home here.

Mrs. John Bohman, Mr. and Mrs. George Berndt and son, Lester, spent Sunday at Wausau, where they visited the former's husband, who is confined to the hospital there. Mr. Bohman recently underwent an operation on his left arm, which was injured in an accident at the FWD factory over a year ago. It is expected that he will be able to return home by Christmas.

John Ewer, who has been critically ill with pneumonia for the last week at his home, three miles east of Clintonville, is reported to be improving.

Members of the Birthday club met Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Winkler on N. Main street to celebrate her birthday anniversary. Three tables of bridge were played, after which a supper was served. Prizes for high and medium scores went to Mrs. E. A. Miller and Mrs. W. H. Finney.

A group of relatives met for a housewarming party Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gehrke. The Gehrke family recently moved into the residence which they purchased at the corner of S. Maple and W. First streets. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gehrke of Wausau spent the weekend at the Gehrke home.

Wheel Leaves Auto but Occupants are Unhurt
Oneida—Peter Smith and Leona Doxtator have applied for a marriage license.

When Ami Archibault was returning home Saturday evening on Highway 55, a rear wheel of his car came off and jumped two fences landing in a field about a quarter of a mile away. Occupants of the automobile were uninjured.

Mrs. Anna Cottrell returned to her home at Wausau Sunday after spending three weeks visiting her son, Erwin, and friends.

Nevada Could Get Rich If She Started Lottery

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—These dispatches recently contained a reference to the absence of fancy parlors in the state of Nevada and a suggestion that, of all our states, this one was best prepared to get the jump on the others with a state lottery. This advantage exists in the fact that neither Nevada's books nor her public opinion ever had been cluttered with artificial morals.

New York, on the other hand, could not establish a defensive state lottery to reverse the flow of New York money to Nevada's public treasury in less than half a dozen years. First it would be necessary to convince the people that their moral objections to lotteries were really unimportant, a process which would take time and pressure similar to the slow development of national sentiment against prohibition.

True believers in prohibition eventually waived their moral objections to repeal and the return of the corner saloon in favor of the revenue and in resentment against the prosperity of the bootlegger. If Nevada were to start a state lottery today, as she easily might for all that the federal government could do, Nevada would get rich beyond the craziest dreams of the most ardent money-lover on earth and the people of New York—and other states, of course—would compel themselves to abandon a principle by way of retaliation and self-protection. In this they would be assisted by reminders that, after all, the anti-lottery laws and sentiment were not any of their doing but an inheritance from a generation long dead. They were not consulted, but just accepted the moral tradition against lotteries on the word of their civic ancestors.

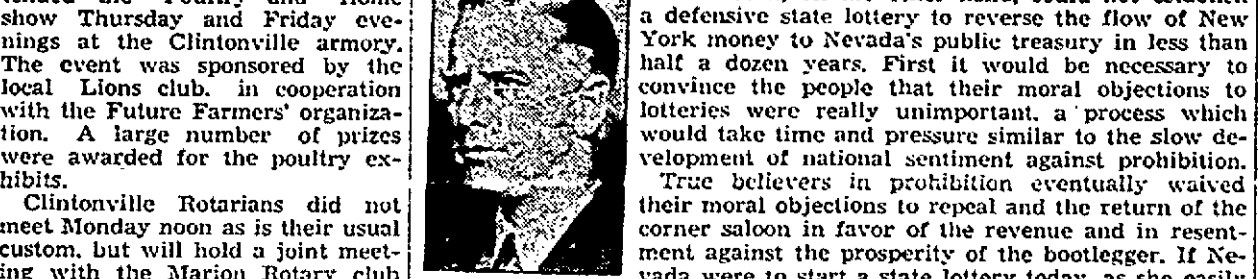

Other States Would Take A Long Time To Catch Up
But, having prepared public sentiment, the proponents of defensive lotteries then would have to proceed through the tedious method of constitutional amendment, which, in New York and some other states, requires several years more.

Meanwhile, Nevada would be cleaning up, and by the time the other states could get into serious competitive action Nevada would have sucked the orange fairly dry and be heeled for a taxless existence extending far into the future.

I mentioned Florida as another possible pioneer, but Florida is hampered by an hypocrisy which would cause uncertainty and delay. Florida's principles and customs are no better than those of Nevada, but to keep up with the Joneses. She has gambling joints but tolerates them on the graft and corruption system instead of accepting the name along with the game.

Nevada is a frank and forthright wanton who taps a nickel on the pane and uses no euphemisms to describe herself in court, whereas Florida pretends to respectability and when picked up by the cops describes herself as "home girl" or "housewife." Nevada says, "Come up and see me sometime," and Florida says, "I certainly hope we can have a good heart to heart talk."

Strangely, there appears to be no book dealing with the innate character and the present-day habits of Nevada, although there is plenty of material on her mountains and minerals, a lack which I trust will be repaired by some author in search of a character. Her press agents, who describe her on the letterheads as "one sound state," give only a rather statistical and materialistic hint of the story in boasting of an existence comparable to that of Monte Carlo, where there is no state income tax, no inheritance tax, no franchise or stock transfer tax, no bonded debt held by interests other than the state's own government, and a per-

Pegler about it, her tickets would sell in New York by the million in spite of everything the postoffice department, the department of justice and the New York state government might do to exclude them.

Churches to Unite For Thanksgiving

THE Prerequisite of Living is the subject chosen by the Rev. Horace W. Parsons, assistant minister at First Congregational church, for his sermon at the annual union Thanksgiving service to be held at 9:30 Thursday morning at Memorial Presbyterian church.

The call to worship will be given by the Rev. William J. Spicer, rector of All Saints Episcopal church; the Lord's Prayer by the Rev. A. Guenther, pastor of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church; and scripture reading by the Rev. John D. Hanna, pastor of First Congregational church. The Rev. G. H. Blum of Emmanuel Evangelical church will present the litany of prayer and Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, will lead the prayer. The offering will be under the direction of the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of the host church, and the benediction will be given by the Rev. Mr. Guenther.

The Presbyterian choir will sing the anthem and choral responses, and Miss Trude Kopplin, organist at the Presbyterian church, will play the service. Each minister joining in the service will wear a gown. The offering will be taken for the religious day school.

Churches cooperating in this service include All Saints Episcopal, First Methodist Episcopal, First Congregational, First Baptist, St. John Evangelical and Reformed, Trinity English Lutheran, Emmanuel Evangelical and Memorial Presbyterian.

Eight Protestant Churches to Join In Union Service

Rev. Horace Parsons to Give Thanksgiving Sermon Thursday

A union Thanksgiving service in which eight Protestant churches are cooperating will be held at 9:30 Thursday morning at Memorial Presbyterian church. The Rev. Horace W. Parsons, assistant minister at First Congregational church, will give the sermon and the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of the host church, will preside. Cooperating churches whose congregations will join in the service are Memorial Presbyterian, First Congregational, First Methodist Episcopal, All Saints Episcopal, First Baptist, Emmanuel Evangelical, Trinity English Lutheran and St. John Evangelical and Reformed.

A number of the other churches in the city, both Protestant and Catholic, will hold Thanksgiving services on Thursday. All Saints Episcopal, although joining in the union service at the Presbyterian church, will have a communion service at 8:45 Thursday morning, early enough so that the congregation will be out in time to attend the union service. At St. Olive Lutheran church there will be a special Thanksgiving service at 10:15 in the morning in which the Rev. R. E. Ziesmer, pastor, will preach on "The Sermon of the Saviors."

Zion Lutheran church will have two services on Thanksgiving day, in English at 9 o'clock and in German at 10:15. St. Paul Lutheran church also has scheduled two services for Thursday, English at 9 o'clock with the Rev. F. M. Brandt preaching and German at 10:15.

with the Rev. T. J. Sauer giving the sermon. German, English Services German services at 8:30 Thursday morning and English at 10 o'clock are the special Thanksgiving services scheduled for St. Matthew Lutheran church. The Rev. Philip Froehke will preach both sermons. At the Gospel Temple there will be a special service at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at which the Rev. C. D. Gouda, pastor, will speak. The Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor of First English Lutheran church, will preach at the Thanksgiving service at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at his church.

Trinity English Lutheran church has advanced its Thanksgiving service to 7:45 Wednesday night because the congregation is joining in the union service at the Presbyterian church Thursday morning.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert K. Bell will attend a meeting in Oshkosh at 7:30 Friday evening for Presbyterians of this area at which the moderator of the general assembly of the church, William Hiram Foulkes, New York, will be present. Last Sunday morning a Thanksgiving service was held at Memorial Presbyterian church in which members of the congregation participated. Proclamations to the altar by various groups bringing symbols of gifts from God featured the service. A dinner was served at noon with Mrs. C. J. Hanlon's circle of the Presbyterian Guild in charge.

An adult study club for people of college age and over will be started at 7:30 this evening at Columbia hall. The group will use "Modern Problems" by the Rev. Rudolph Bandas as a study outline. A definite meeting time will be chosen at the organization meeting. High masses of Thanksgiving will be celebrated at 7 and 8 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Mary church.

The Rev. I. E. Schlagenhaut, district superintendent of Appleton district of the Methodist Episcopal church, attended a religious education meeting of the rub district Monday at Shawano. Dr. John W. Wilson, pastor-at-large for the congregational church in Wisconsin, preached at dedication services of the church at Fulton last Sunday morning and also at services at Edgerton. Next week he will conduct a preaching mission at Ladysmith.

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following is a passage taken from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We hear it said, 'I exercise daily in the open air. I take cold baths, in order to overcome a predisposition to take cold, and yet I have continual cold, catarrh and cough.' Such admissions ought to open people's eyes to the inefficiency of material hygiene and induce sufferers to look in other directions for cause and cure. A demonstration of the facts of soul in Jesus' way resolves the dark visions of material sense into harmony and immortality. Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forced by the illusion that he lives in body instead of soul, in matter instead of in spirit."

Thanksgiving day services will be held at 10:30 Thursday morning at First Church of Christ, Scientist. They will include the reading of President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving proclamation, selections from the Bible and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, and testimonies of healing and remarks on Christian Science by members of the congregation.

Chinese School Girl Sends Letter Asking For Red Cross Aid

One of the first letters since the inauguration of the foreign correspondence program at Appleton High school was received this morning from a Chinese school girl in Hankow, China.

The letter contained a plea for Red Cross aid through the high school and was addressed to the "captain of the basketball team" because "the captain of any athletic team in China is a person of importance in the school and has much influence with the girls." The Chinese girl's name is Shen Chung Shi and she wrote briefly of war conditions in her country and said that she wanted to help nurse her country's wounded men, but because of her age she was assigned to Red Cross duty.

More than 10,750,000 women were in gainful employment in the United States at the time of the 1930 census—almost six times as many as were so occupied in 1870.

A Cappella Choir Will Take Part in Program

Menasha—The annual Thanksgiving assembly of Menasha High school students will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Brin theater. Franklyn LeFevre, music supervisor, will have charge of the program and the a cappella choir and other musical groups will appear.

Music Pupils to Perform Tonight

400 Children to Join in Presenting "Legend of Sleepy Hollow"

Menasha—Final rehearsals of "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," which will be presented at 7:30 tonight at the Butte des Morts school, have drawn favorable comment from listeners. The newly created vocal music department of the Menasha Public schools will go on parade with representative groups from all grades, junior and senior high school participating.

All the groups originally scheduled to appear will not do so, partly because of the length of the program and partly because some have not as yet achieved the standard set by Franklyn LeFevre, vocal music supervisor.

The combined grade schools went through a final rehearsal Monday morning and gave promise of doing well considering the short period of rehearsal. The girls' choral club and the a cappella choir also have completed rehearsals and will sing groups of numbers.

Edward Div will accompany the 400 grade school children in "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Miss Margaret Hess will accompany the girls' choral club.

Tuchschers with lines of 219, 173 and 210 for 602.

Broadway No. 1 team copped both series and high game with a total of 2,882 and top game of 987. Second high series went to the Noeffke-Kroiss Builders with a 2,649 total followed by a 2,829 for the Tonk club, Yankee Paper company and the Noeffke-Kroiss tied for second high game honors with 975 each.

Other high games included R. Stulp and E. Power, 209 each; E. Resch, 217; C. Noeffke, 200; P. Borenz, 204; B. Mericle, 204 and 202; F. Rippel, 210; E. Power, 226 and 215.

Reduce Bluejay Cage Squad From 56 to 18 Members

Final Selection of Varsity Team to be Made Wednesday Afternoon

Menasha—Coach N. A. Calder has narrowed his basketball squad of 56 to 18 men from which he will choose the 12 or 14 for the varsity squad. Final selection of the squad will be made after the practice Wednesday.

Members of the squad at present are Kenneth DuCharme, William Reesch, Clifford Heiss, John Kuester, Dave Buksyk, Harry Zelinske, Bernard Middleton, Earl Block, Leo Ostewalski, Mervin Schneider, Edward Latondres, Henry Landstrom, Alvin Kolosinski, Lowell Tate, Joseph Michalkiewicz, Donald Blaney, George Goesser and G. Knoll.

The first scrimmage for the squad has been set for the second practice on Friday by Coach Calder. The players will not have any practice on Thanksgiving or on Saturday but will make up with two drills on Friday.

Practice next week will include scrimmage Monday and Tuesday while on Wednesday and Thursday the squad will endeavor to correct errors uncovered in the scrimmage sessions. The season will open Dec. 3 with Clintonville coming here for the opening of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference schedule.

Although the varsity squad will be named Wednesday, its roster will be purely tentative. Players from the "B" squad who show ability will have a chance to displace the members of the varsity.

Indications are that the Menasha squad will be fairly strong on defense but that the offense will need revamping and experience. The varsity will drill five times a week while the "B" squad will have three practice sessions and the fresh men two. The last two groups will drill under the direction of L. E. Lindquist.

Crime Detection Studied by Boys' Brigade at Neenah

Winnebago County Traffic Officers Speak to Group Meetings

Neenah — Crime detection and prevention was the theme of the weekly meeting of the Neenah Boys' Brigade Monday night at the Brigade building.

Speakers included County Traffic Officers Irving Stilt, Neenah, and Marshall Sparle and Sam Tobo, Oshkosh. The officers talked to ninth and tenth grade groups. Tobo talked on "Crime Doesn't Pay," and he explained the radio system which enabled officers to be more efficient in apprehending criminals today. Stilt and Sparle explained the actual functions of the police radio system, demonstrating with a short wave set, picking up the police radio station WAKE.

John Simonich, of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, Neenah, talked to the eleventh and twelfth grade groups on "Leadership Essentials." Using the word "power," as a basis for his talk, Mr. Simonich took each letter of the word and transformed them into other words as outstanding essentials, such as P for purpose, O for obedient, W for work, E for enthusiasm and R for responsibility.

Monday night's session was the first full meeting night of the various groups of the Brigade. The sixth grade groups dealt with hobbies and the use of leisure time, while the seventh and eighth grade groups made a study of Wisconsin song birds and wild ducks.

The entire Brigade personnel, including the leaders, is being fitted out with blue shirts which is the standard uniform for the local unit. The uniforms are supplemented with a white haversack, Brigade belt and blue cap. A yellow tie and distinctive emblem for each group on the left sleeve of each blue shirt and a Brigade emblem above that will complete the uniform.

The drill program for the Boys' Brigade has been temporarily discontinued because of the destruction of the Wesleyan hall when the First Methodist church burned down the week ago. Full credit for drill attendance and drill department will be given if a boy attends group meetings.

Three district governors will be at the meeting, E. W. Mackey, Manitowish, Dr. Harry J. Watson, Milwaukee, and Ralph F. Kennedy, Stevens Point. Judge A. M. Scheller, Waupaca, will be toastmaster.

St. Mary Cagers To Use Fast Break In Games This Year

Plays, Signals Stressed in First Drill in School Gymnasium

Menasha — St. Mary High school basketball players held their first drill Monday in the St. Mary gym following the completion of the year-long season. The drill was a continuation of St. Mary's gym. About 25 candidates reported for the "B" squad while 14 are out for the "A" squad. Some practices for the "A" group were held last week at the St. John parish hall.

The first squad began learning plays and signals but had no scrimmages. The practice period has been so short that fundamentals have been only hurried over and it will take some time to work the group into any semblance of team play. Scrimmages will be held next week in an attempt to give the squad as much experience similar to game conditions as possible. The team will open on Friday, Dec. 3, with St. Mary high going to Manitowish.

The St. Mary basketball players will employ a short-passing game this year, according to Coach Marvin Miller. They will also use the quick break to take advantage of the new rule eliminating the center jump and thereby speeding up the game. Both the offense and defense will be varied to meet the opposing teams.

Neenah Society

Neenah — Mrs. F. R. Proctor read "The Unknown Story of Thanksgiving" and Miss Anna Proctor read "Pilot on the Glory Road," a sketch of the life of Mrs. Edward Mac Dowell" at the Eclectic Reading Circle meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Coon, Adams street.

Pythian Sisters held a card party Monday evening in Pythian hall with prizes going to Mrs. Morris Hansen and Mrs. Chris Lemberg in bridge and Mrs. Harold Noyen in schafkopf. Mrs. George Sherman won the guest prize. Sixteen tables were in play.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dowling, 211 Fifth street, entertained Dr. Del Marcel, Green Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gilbertson, Oshkosh, at dinner last evening.

I. D. K. club will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. John Schultz, N. Park avenue.

Ladies society, First Evangelical church, which was to meet Wednesday, has postponed its monthly session until Wednesday, Dec. 1.

Neenah chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will meet at 8:30 Wednesday evening in Masonic temple for a potluck supper and meeting.

Meeting of Circle 1, Women's Union, Whiting Memorial Baptist church, scheduled for Wednesday, has been postponed to Tuesday, Nov. 30 when it will be held at the home of Mrs. George Kleinoder, E. Columbia avenue.

Both the bands and the capella choirs of both schools will be invited to participate in the program. Each group will sing and play its own numbers and will join in the community singing. The capella choirs are new at both Menasha and St. Mary high schools this year.

Sitters Beverage Win Two Matches

Defeat Fischl Dairy, Manitowish, and Schlitz Beers, Sheboygan

Neenah — Sitters Beverage bowling team of the Fox Valley league won two special matches Monday night, winning three games from the Fischl Dairy at Manitowish and two games from the Schlitz Beers at Sheboygan.

Rolling against the Manitowish quintet, the Sitters posted a grand total of 2,949 pins. They were paced by F. Wege who took high individual game and series. Wege started fast, spilling 246 pins in his first game for second high individual game, then dropped to a mere 210 and 191 in his other two games for a total of 647.

V. Suess also turned in a good score to help the Sitters to their triple win. Suess posted a 276 in his third game for high individual game, a 200 in his second game and a 154 in his first game for a total of 630, which was good for second high individual series. Team scores: Sitters Beverage—937, 931, 1,041—2,949; Fischl's Dairy—931, 917, 883—2,739.

In their match with Sheboygan, the Sitters lost the first game but then copped the two other games to collect a total of 2,660 pins to Sheboygan's 2,576.

A. Brecklin and P. Wege tied for honors in this match, each posting a 588 for high individual 3-game total, while H. Wevers of Sheboygan took second high individual 3-game series with 566. F. Wege also copped high individual game with 214 and E. Heckrodt of Sheboygan took second with 210.

Scores: Sitters—891, 848, 921—2,660; Beers—904, 820, 832—2,576.

Suggests Storm Pipes be Cut From Sanitary System

W. H. Clifford, Sewage Commissioner, Discusses Plant Operation

Neenah — Urging divorcement of roof drains from sanitary sewers in the Twin Cities, W. H. Clifford, Menasha, president of the Neenah-Menasha sewage commission, discussed the operation of the Twin City plant during an informal meeting of the city council Monday night at the city hall.

The capacity of the plant is about 10 million gallons a day, the president said, and if the plant happens to be working near capacity and an ordinary rain storm develops the sewage is overtaxed and sewage has to be dumped into the lake without being treated, he explained.

An ordinary rain storm increases disposal about five million gallons. The amount however, could be decreased if homeowners will disconnect roof drains, he asserted. He also said that part of the sewage settles in the sewers and when a rain storm occurs this rain carries the settled sewage into the plant too fast and it cannot be treated.

Mr. Clifford discussed the plant's 1938 budget, conditions at the plant and explained how the plant operates. He added that an exact budget cannot be prepared, for it is impossible to tell exactly how much chemicals will be needed during the year.

The celebration committee of the council discussed the location of a municipal Christmas tree. Suggestions for locations were N. Commercial and Forest avenue, N. Commercial street and Wisconsin avenue, Main street and Wisconsin avenue and on E. Wisconsin avenue.

The council favored the erection of a city garage on the city's property on Main street, adjacent to the present city garage and instructed the city engineer, A. G. Prunsky, to draw plans for the building. The council also instructed City Clerk H. S. Zemock to advertise for bids for repairing the steeple on the city hall. The bids will include the erection of a wood flag pole. The steeple jacks presently working on the roof of the building will finish his work.

Menashans Will Attend Banquet for Lions Head

Conference Opens Friday; Lodgings For Boys Needed

Bailey Reports Shortage Of Quarters for Young Delegates

More accommodations are needed for high school youths who will attend the thirty-fifth annual Wisconsin Older Boys Conference Friday and Saturday. C. C. Bailey, boys director at the Y. M. C. A., said this morning.

"I would appreciate it if persons who are willing to have one or more of the boys at their homes Friday night and give them breakfast Saturday morning would call the Y. M. C. A. We need more accommodations."

More than 200 high school leaders already are registered for the 2-day conference, Bailey reported. A total of 183 outside registrations have been received at the "Y" and there are about 20 delegates from Appleton who will attend.

Dr. Joseph L. Baron, rabbi at the Congregation Emmanu-El B'Ne Jeshurun, Milwaukee, will be the first convention speaker. He will talk at the opening conference at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the First Methodist Episcopal church. "Living Together" will be the subject of his talk.

Dr. Baron is a popular speaker with college and high school students and is well-known throughout the midwest.

WILL SPEAK HERE

Dr. Joseph L. Baron, Milwaukee, will be the first speaker of the Wisconsin Older Boys Conference which opens here Friday morning. He will address the youths at the first session Friday afternoon in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Skies to Remain Cloudy Tomorrow

Rain or Snow Forecast for North and West-Central Parts of State

Skies will remain cloudy tonight and tomorrow, according to the forecast today of the United States Weather bureau. The temperature is expected to rise slowly Wednesday. Snow or rain is probable in the north and west-central portions of the state and some of the precipitation may reach Appleton and vicinity.

At noon today the temperature stood at the freezing mark. Maximum and minimum temperatures of 34 and 18 degrees were reported in the last 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning. The minimum reading was taken at 1 o'clock this morning at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

Highest and lowest temperatures yesterday were 80 at Phoenix and 14 at Charles City.

'Four Aces' Pile Up 4,080 Points to Win For Vanderbilt Team

New York—(P)—The "four aces" were kings of the bridge world again today, so far as the Vanderbilt cup goes.

The 4,080 points piled up last night by Oswald Jacoby, Howard Schenken, David Burnstine, M. D. Meier, and Sherman Stearns left Harold S. Vanderbilt's team far in the rear.

The only glory for Vanderbilt and his teammates, Waldemar K. Von Zedwitz, Theodore A. Lightner, Charles Lochridge and B. Jay Becker was the fact that they led the champions by 60 points Sunday at the halfway mark of the 72 boards.

That slim lead went off the books at the start yesterday when Lightner's tardiness in reporting cost the Vanderbilts 100 points penalty. But that wouldn't have made any difference, for the aces, playing more consistently, jumped out in front by 530 points in their own right after 45 boards and were never headed.

The final score might not have been so large had not the Vanderbilts, trailing by 1,010 points with nine boards left, decided to throw caution to the winds.

Challenges Critics of Proposed Cooperative

Washington—(P)—Critics of the proposed Chippewa Falls, Wis., cooperative electric generating plant were challenged yesterday by John M. Carmody, rural electrification administrator, to advance valid arguments against the development.

The proposed plant, he contended in a statement, could generate and transmit electricity to its 10 distribution cooperatives "for less than the best bona fide offer of any existence source of power."

"I have yet to hear an argument against this generating set-up," said Carmody's statement, "which was not advanced directly or indirectly by someone with an axe to grind."

"Until I do, I propose to continue to follow the evident wishes of the farmers who will be served."

CONTINUED CASE

Acting Municipal Judge Fred V. Heinemann this morning continued the case in which Otto Dybus, 2009 N. Appleton street, is charged with operating a truck without a license for 10 days. Dybus was arrested yesterday by city police.

Canning Company Employees Strike

New London Factory Officials, Union Representatives Confer

Sixty-four employees of the Hamilton and Sons Canning company at New London went on strike at 7 o'clock this morning asking increased wages, better working conditions and a closed shop.

Officials of the company, a committee of the Canning Factory Employees local which was organized last week, and two union organizers, Robert McFarlin, Milwaukee, and Ellis Hunter, Frankfort, are meeting today in an attempt to reach an agreement.

Fifty pickets are stationed at the plant today. No violence has been reported.

The union was organized last week by McFarlin and Hunter when about 150 men were laid off over a period of several weeks. Officials of the company said this morning the men were laid off because of the seasonal canning slump combined with an added drop in business because of economic conditions in the country.

McFarlin said that 62 of the 64 remaining men employed by the company have been signed by the union and the men had applied for a charter.

Officers of the new union are: Donald Wendt, president; Selma Malliet, vice president; Ernie Foley, treasurer; Alvin Schaeffer, financial secretary; Stella Fenton, recording secretary; and Betty Tank, corresponding secretary.

Roosevelt Denies Using Bad Grammar In Talks on Tour

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt refused today to concede that he used bad grammar.

Shown an open letter by Prof. Janet R. Aiken of Columbia university questioning his grammar in recent speeches, the president smilingly blamed newsmen who reported his extemporaneous remarks.

Prof. Aiken quoted the president as saying at Cheyenne, Wyo., "engineers are human just like I am." At Boise, Idaho, she said Mr. Roosevelt let go with this one: "Just like the plain folks like all of us are."

A check of the official stenographic transcripts of those speeches carried textually in the press showed Prof. Aiken quoted the president correctly at Cheyenne, but had one too many "likes" for Boise.

The transcript noted the president said "just like the plain folks we, all of us, are."

In her letter, Dr. Aiken wanted to know: "Did you learn how to use 'like' that way at Groton or Harvard or where?"

Constance Worth Seeks To Divorce George Brent

Los Angeles—(P)—Constance Worth, who bitterly opposed George Brent's suit to annul their marriage last summer, admitted today her reconciliation efforts had failed. She asked for a divorce.

The Australian actress' complaint charged Brent with cruelty. She said they had signed a property agreement and asked no alimony.

Miss Worth, 26, and the Irish film hero were married at Tia Juana, Mexico, May 10. Brent sued for annulment in July, alleging they had not complied with Mexican marriage laws. Miss Worth fought the action, contending they were wed in good faith.

Display Christmas Books For Children at Library

Parents who wish to buy books for their children, for Christmas presents will be given an opportunity to see the books on display at the Appleton Public library from Monday until Christmas, according to Miss Dorothy Kotkosky, children's librarian. The display will be placed in the adult section of the library within reach of parents who visit the building.

Hold Story Hour for Children at Library

A story hour for children of the lower grades will be held in the children's department at the Appleton Public library at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Stories told by Miss Dorothy Kotkosky, children's librarian, last Saturday were: "Spirit of the Corn," "Old Jan the Cobbler," and "Piggy Wee's Little Curly Tail."

Town of Grand Chute Tax Rate Set at $13

A tax rate of $13 per thousand, an increase of $2 over this year, was set by the town of Grand Chute board last night for 1938, according to Wayne Rowan, town clerk. The increase is due to increased state and county demands. The assessed valuation of the town is $3,485,400, an increase of $55,625. The county tax increase is $1.73 per thousand and the state tax 10 cents per thousand, Rowan said.

After his death the record will be played in the hearing of his family and friends.

BABY SAFE AFTER SWALLOWING PIN

Pins aren't on the diet of babies, but Ila Jean, 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reineke, 803 N. Drew street, didn't learn that until she was 15 months old. She was shown with the above picture was taken about the one she had swallowed. She is shown with her mother. The baby swallowed an open safety pin last Friday. Frequent x-ray pictures were taken and it was determined yesterday afternoon that it had passed from the stomach and an operation was unnecessary. The pin was later recovered and the baby has evidently suffered no ill effects. (Post-Crescent Photo)

15 Extracurricular Groups For Wilson School Pupils Are Organizing This Week

The club season at Wilson Junior High school will open Monday, according to Guy J. Barlow, principal. The season will continue until March 21 with meetings being held each Monday at various class periods in rotation.

Pupils of all grades may register for any of the 15 clubs to be organized but if too many sign for any particular group, preference will be given to the higher grades. Each student will sign for a first, second and third choice club so that he may be assigned to one of the clubs he prefers.

Following is the list of clubs being organized this week:

Dramatic club, sponsored by Miss Monica Cooney. The club will be a workshop for students interested in the theater. History of the theater, systems of productions, pantomime and reading will be covered.

Crocheting club, sponsored by Miss Irma Roemer. The object of the organization is to teach members how to crochet and to make such articles as purses, scarfs, dish holders and afghans.

Study Wood Carving

Wood Carving club, sponsored by Carl Enger. It will be a club organized to interest the students in wood carving as a hobby. Early and present methods will be studied with members beginning with simple chip carving.

Music club, sponsored by Miss Helmi Peltoniemi. The group will study stories of operas, listen to records and radio programs of best music and compile notebooks on biographies of individuals famous in the music world.

Collectors club, sponsored by Miss Alma Bohlmann. This club is designed for those who are interested in collecting stamps, butterflies, coins, dolls, pictures, bits of china, books, unusual toys, antiques and things of historical interest. Visits will be made to nearby museums and some time will be given to the study of nationally famous museums.

Library Training

Library club, sponsored by Miss Pearl Seybold. Purpose is to provide training in library work and activities will include preparation of a picture and clipping file to be used as a reference aid. Lumber Workers Reject Affiliation With CIO

Madison—(P)—The state labor relations board announced today that plant workers of the Cedar Lumber and Lumber company, Laona, Wis., voted down a proposal to make the CIO their representative in collective bargaining.

The vote, sponsored by the International Wood Workers, Local 125, was taken under supervision of the state board yesterday.

Jack Kyle, board secretary, said the workers rejected CIO affiliation, 192 to 138.

which he said business should be "permitted reasonable latitude to run itself."

House Republicans, at the request of Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) who opposes the levies, arranged to caucus on the question of advocating repeal of the undivided surplus and capital gains taxes.

The house tax subcommittee asked treasury officials to supply estimates of revenue reductions which would result from exempting various percentages from the undistributed profits levy. Any loss, committeemen said, probably could be made up by increasing the normal corporation tax in the higher ranges.

The subcommittee has not decided at what point to stop complete exemption from the undistributed profits levy. It has agreed, however, to exempt entirely corporations with incomes up to $5,000.

In an attempt to meet widespread criticism that the tax affects business adversely, the subcommittee

Man Is Arrested In Death of Girl

Employer of Victim Held For Questioning After Body Is Found

Socorro, N. M.—(P)—The body of pretty Rose Garcia, 19-year-old servant girl, was found in a shallow, sand-filled grave today and District Attorney John Baron Burg announced he was holding a Socorro business man for questioning. The girl had been missing two days.

Sheriff Frank Knoblock said she had been mutilated with a pen knife, shot through the left breast, and apparently attacked.

Burg said he was holding W. B. Cassidy, manager of a local laundry, for questioning. Cassidy, in whose home the girl had been employed, Burg said, gave him the information which led to discovery of the girl's body.

The district attorney said Cassidy declared the girl had killed herself and that he had placed her body in the shallow grave, under a two-inch covering of loose sand.

A coroner's jury, summoned at the scene, returned a verdict that the girl, daughter of Guadalupe Garcia, widely known rancher near here, died "from a gunshot wound inflicted by an unknown person."

Burg indicated another jury session would be called.

Cassidy is married and the father of several children.

Legion Auxiliary Maps Out Program for 1938

Indianapolis—(P)—The weight of a record advance membership was thrown today behind the national American Legion auxiliary's 1938 program for Americanism, reduction of juvenile delinquency and lessening of traffic accidents.

A national telegraphic roll call at the close of the auxiliary's annual two-day conference here yesterday showed an advance membership of 266,538, largest in the history of the organization and 60 per cent of the goal for next year.

Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Racine, Wis., national chairman of the committee on community service, spoke on the need for solution of traffic problems.

Convalescent Center Set Up for Victims of Infantile Paralysis

Madison—(P)—A convalescent center for residents of northwestern Wisconsin who were stricken in the recent outbreak of infantile paralysis has been established in Eau Claire with the help of the state medical society and the Eau Claire County Medical society. Marguerite Lison Ingram of the state department of public instruction announced today.

Patients in need of physical therapy care will be admitted either to the Luther or Sacred Heart hospitals for treatment until they have recovered sufficiently to be transferred to the Eau Claire Orthopedic school, Mrs. Ingram said.

Forty-eight cases of infantile paralysis of children under 21 were reported during the summer and early fall in 11 counties surrounding Eau Claire. Six persons over 21 in those counties also had the disease.

"Some of this group have recovered with no apparent disability, but for those children who still have weakened muscles it was necessary to provide some facilities for corrective exercises," Mrs. Ingram said. "These children probably will attend the Eau Claire Orthopedic school later, but at present they need more nursing care than can be provided at the school."

She said the Eau Claire, Dunn and Pepin County Medical societies have appointed a physician to take charge of routine medical supervision of children admitted to the two hospitals. Miss Alfaretta Wright, a member of Mrs. Ingram's crippled children division staff, will be in charge of the more advanced treatment at the orthopedic school.

The cost of the hospital care is to be paid by the parents if they are financially able. Mrs. Ingram said, but other services will be given without charge.

Mistake to Let Issue Come Between Parent and Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

In my experience, it is a mistake to allow anything to become an issue between yourself and a child. If he refuses to obey a reasonable request, and he is in the stage that we call infancy, you may have to pick him up and put him where you want him. You may have to insist that the thing be done because it must be done. If he is older, then with as pleasant a manner as you can manage, in as impersonal a tone as you can command, put the matter up to him and leave it there. Go your way.

Whenever you find yourself facing a crisis this is good technique. Rid yourself of personal feeling; then, not before state the case, and leave it. Don't stand by to watch the rebellious one climb down and yield his flag. Don't allow him to feel that there is any such dramatic climax to the affair. Let him feel that the ending is rather flat, falling as it does without audience, without salutes on either side.

It is the feeling of shamed surrender that makes most of the trouble between parents and adolescent children at such times. Father or mother has uttered a decree. Son or daughter has issued an ultimatum. The issue is squarely drawn. Somebody must back down. In ninety-nine times out of the hundred it must be the child.

Don't make the surrender difficult. Don't fight a battle that must leave scars more painful in your memory than in his. Don't feel any personal pride, endangered authority or any of the older foolish vanities of the human soul, but get out of the way.

Once the issue is ended let it forever rest. Don't, if you value the peace of your household, your relationship with the children, refer to an issue that was drawn between you and fought out. The child does not like to remember it. Recalling it as you do recalls the shame and humiliation of that hour and the anger flares up again. The battle has to be fought all over again, and with added bitterness. No good can come of recalling past difficulties.

The best way to avoid such happenings is by the more difficult road of prevention. It is not always possible to see what is coming, but it is usually possible to see and avoid the situations that threaten the smooth progress of family living and present them. Don't mention the girl friend if mentioning her brings on a storm. Don't speak about the poor mark in last month's report if it will cause anger. Don't be sarcastic about the time spent on dressing for an occasion if you know that your speech will stir anger. Be wiser than the serpent. Set the stage for a kindly reception to your approaches, then go forward.

The touchy adolescent is better dealt with indirectly. His skin is too thin to be touched with the bare hand. Use your softest and most soothing balm and wait for a more opportune time to speak your words in season. "In season," means so much.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

RULE TWISTERS

Dear Mrs. Post: You have stated that when writing to a firm whose personnel might include half a dozen women and one man, it is best to begin the letters Dear Sirs rather than Dear Madams. But what is one to decide when sending a letter to Miss Blank's School? It seems rather incongruous to begin such a letter "Dear Sirs" and yet I have an idea that there must be some men on the board.

Answer: When an organization or firm is incorporated in the name of a woman you would properly address a letter "Dear Madams".

The French Capital City

Paris, France: One of the sights I saw soon after reaching Paris was the Eiffel tower. It would be hard to miss seeing the tower when traveling from one part of the city to another.

Eiffel tower is the tallest building in Europe—in fact, the tallest anywhere outside New York city. It rises to a height of 984 feet, and was built 48 years ago.

Fireworks display at Eiffel tower

Now a great fair is taking place in Paris and the tower still stands. In fact, it is right on the grounds. It was named in honor of Gustave Eiffel, the engineer who had charge of setting it up.

Paris is not only the capital city of France—it is also the largest city in the country. It ranks among the large cities of the world. It is smaller than London, New York, Tokyo or Berlin, but contains more people than Rome, Vienna or Shanghai.

Back View May Cause Back Talk

BY ELSIE PIERCE

The average woman is pretty particular about the way she looks, as far as she can see with the aid of a hand mirror. But back views are often overlooked. And backviews may furnish food for much back talk.

The social season calls for a flawless picture, all the way 'round. Think of the many people who may be seated behind you at the theatre, at a moving picture showing, in a night club or restaurant. Think of the many people who may be walking or standing behind you while you are shopping or strolling or standing in a street car. The back view of you tells a story about you; it stamps you as meticulous or slipshod in your grooming. A "personally dressed" of a large department store stresses precisely the importance of back views in his tips to job hunters. He always makes it a point to watch young women applying to him; he is quick to notice little flaws as they make their exit. He says, "Such little details as run down heels, crooked stocking seams, hanging curls always flash a picture of neglected corners. To me such details are inexcusable in a young woman who presents a very personable appearance, face forward."

Unified Beauty

A true picture of beauty has to have unity—full face, profile, back and from head to toes. There must be no line of demarcation where the mirror view ended. That is why the triple mirror is so strongly recommended as an ally of loveliness. Whether you are off to the office in the morning or to a formal dinner-dance date in the evening, linger before the triple mirror preferably a full length mirror, too, and see yourself as others will see you. Your hair should be as neatly arranged in back as it is front and sides; if you are wearing a low-cut evening dress your powder foundation should be carried down over back and arms and the skin on your back should be as unblemished as that of your face. Your dress should be unwrinkled and so on down the eyeline.

Notice the backview of your hairstyle particularly, whether you are wearing a hat or not. Does it look as though it belonged to the fashionable rolls and swirls at the sides. The sausage roll doesn't belong to today's picture. Upward sweeping swirls are better!

The bidding:

Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's third hand bid was pretty light but, at match point duplicate, not to be censured. When the double of one no trump was left in by West for penalties, North was far from happy, but decided to gamble it out rather than increase the contract to two hearts.

West opened the club jack. Dummy's king won and a low heart was led to the king. West won and, recognizing that his partner must have a very good diamond suit, since he could have little else, shifted to his singleton. East took the queen and king, then, despite his disappointment over the break of the suit, cashed the ace also. Meanwhile, West hastily rid himself of two clubs, thereby directing East to abandon the club suit. East read the situation correctly and returned a low spade. The king forced the ace and, on the play of the spade queen, West carefully unblocked his jack. Another spade lead lost to east, who cashed the fourth round of the suit and then, still shutting dealer out of his own hand, returned a heart. West still had to make a heart trick that turned out to be the setting trick.

NOVELTY SUIT

Fashion knocks twice at the customer's door, first with the ordinary, then the bizarre. Here's a London novelty suit with "church door" front in brown and pink.

For a good East-West match point score.

Postpone Wedding Instead Of Residing With Parents

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Our wedding day was set when the sudden need of money for business made it impossible for us to marry and set up the little home we had planned. The only way we can get married now is to live with either my family or the girl's. Which is worse, living with our families, or postponing our wedding? M. A.

Answer:

If there's any prospect of your being able to establish your own home within the next couple of years I should say wait. If not, marry and pray Heaven to give you the wisdom, patience, tact and forbearance to make a success of a marriage under trying circumstances.

For a young couple to go to live with their parents when they are married should be, one would think, a natural and pleasant arrangement that would bring happiness to all concerned. It lets the parents still have the happiness of their child's society and it enables a boy and girl to marry when they bring up their child's wedding. Hence the parents should be pleased and the young couple grateful and all go well.

That is the theory of the case, but in real life it seldom works out that way. The parents secretly resent to support a daughter-in-law or a son-in-law. The young husband's pride is cut to the quick by not being able to provide a home for his bride. And if he goes to live with his wife's people he goes with a chip on his shoulder, always looking for snubs and patronage and ready to fight at the drop of a hat.

If they go to live with the bridegroom's family, the mother and wife are jealous of each other. Each is suspicious that the other is trying to dominate the poor young husband, who is torn in two between them. The young wife is bitterly disappointed at not having her own home. If she has given up her job to marry she has nothing to do, nothing to interest her except to quarrel with her mother-in-law and think mean things about her.

Of course, this should not be thus, and sometimes it isn't. I have known brides and bridegrooms who went to live with their families where the arrangement made for the happiness of both parties, but in these cases the people were of high character and determinedly adapted themselves to the situation. The mother and father were broad and tolerant in dealing with the young people, and the young people tried to be real sons and daughters to their in-laws.

So it can be done, but living with their parents is a risky experiment for any young couple. It nearly always brings about family quarrels that leave scars that never heal. But, if the necessity is forced upon you, it is far better to go to live with the girl's parents than the man's, because a mother and daughter can get along better together than a mother-in-law and daughter-in-law.

Furthermore, the son-in-law, being out of the house at work all day, does not get so much upon the nerves of the mother-in-law as does the daughter-in-law, who is always present.

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a young man who is all that any girl could ask for in a husband, and we are very much in love. But I made the mistake of not waiting for the ONE man, and since meeting and loving my fiancé I realize what a fatal error I committed. It happens that he knew about my previous life before we met, and he has tried in every way to forget it and push it out of his mind, but cannot do it. We are both miserable. For I now realize the feeling a man has about his wife. But what can I do to make him forgive and forget? I have told him over and over again how much I regret my mistake. We each feel that life without the other would be empty.

WORRIED.

Answer:

There is nothing you can do, because you cannot undo the things you have done. The most terrible thing in life is that we cannot retrieve our blunders, nor wash out our mistakes with our tears of repentance. Nor is there any magic by which we can blot out from the memories of others the wrongs we have committed. All our lives we must go paying for the sinning of a moment.

It is impossible that your fiancé should ever forget what you have done, but it seems to me that under the circumstances he might well forgive you and let the dead past bury its dead. He loves you, his happiness is bound up in you, he must know that you bitterly regret your wild girlhood and that you will not be guilty of the same follies again. So why not draw the veil of silence over what has been a moment.

LET A DOCTOR ADVISE YOU

By H. SCHLINTZ
of Schlitz Bros. Co.

Too many people go about the daily business of living, feeling that life is a burden. There is no particular reason for this depression, just a general let down and lowliness of spirit. One dreads the morning and the beginning of another weary day.

This is the time to visit a doctor. Other people may smile at your dragging spirits, but wise doctor knows better. He recognizes a serious symptom.

Often it is not particularly serious. One needs a boost, a tonic, a life over a bad spot. If the doctor recognizes that you are seriously affected he will tell you what to do, and how to live to combat the difficulty.

If it is only a tonic you need, the capable doctor will prescribe that too. He can give you back the joy in living that you had as a child.

If medicine is needed, use care in the selection of a druggist to fill the prescription the doctor will write.

Plan Scrimmage For Vike Cagers

First Heavy Drill Scheduled for Wednesday Afternoon

SCRIMMAGE sessions for the Lawrence college varsity basketball team probably will be started Wednesday afternoon. Coach Arthur C. Denney announced today. The Vikings have been practicing for the last two weeks with all of the time being spent on maneuvers and developing the team. There will be no drill Thursday but the squad will work Saturday to make up for the lack of practice.

Denney isn't certain what kind of a squad he'll have. It has plenty of spirit, the Vike mentor said, but it isn't too smart and may be prone to error under strain. "But we'll give 'em all a battle," he added.

A rather large squad which makes for plenty of competition has pleased Denney. At the defensive guard he has Jack Crawford, who saw play last season, but with Fred Siko, a sophomore. He wants a rather rugged, heavy man for the position and the two offer the most.

The other guard berth is developing into a fight between Ken Bueing and Norm Falcide. Both are fast, handle the ball well and can dump baskets. Whatever edge there is at the moment goes to "the flea" because he's got one season of conference competition to his credit. It's certain, however, that both will see plenty of action during the course of the season.

Kapp, Herzog at Center

Junior Kapp and Ray Herzog are working at the center berth with Cliff Burton. A possibility although he now is at a forward position. Denney doesn't know how the no-center jump ruling will affect his centers and he'll probably have to experiment. The job still requires height around the basket but it also demands much more running.

At the forward posts Wallie Cape has attracted attention because of his speed and ability to follow up shots. He's battling with Harry Jackson for the job, the latter having shown considerable shooting ability last season but a little short on stamina. The other forward job is almost sewed up by Cliff Burton, the only question being the possibility of his being shifted to center.

Lawrence freshman cagers were ordered out last night and will show practically every afternoon this week as the better boys are noted and the others hunted to the intramural squads. The eliminating process will be via the scrimmage route.

TO PLAY IN CHARITY GAME

Two of the probable members of the Appleton Reds football team, which will meet Kaukauna Electric City Brewers at Whiting field, Thanksgiving afternoon, are Eddie Sanders, left above, and Don Green, both guards. The game has been arranged as a benefit for the Lions club blind fund and members of the club are selling tickets. Both teams got down to the business of practicing yesterday and will continue tonight and Wednesday. The Kaukauna aggregation has recruited a half dozen of the best members of the Little Chute Flying Dutchman team and the combination is expected to give the Reds a real battle. The game is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock.

Buck of Carroll Scored 203 Points in 3 Seasons

WAUKESHA—(AP)—A total of 203 points in three seasons of football—that's the personal record of Art Buck, galloping quarterback who concluded his varsity gridiron career at Carroll college last week with a 27 point contribution to the Pioneers' 39-12 victory over Wheaton.

That record largely is responsible for two years of undefeated football played by Carroll teams—a record now stretching out to 18 games without a setback. It accounts, too, for the look of regret that comes into Coach E. A. Lampe's eyes when he thinks of the not-far-off departure of his star player and nine other seniors who have played as a unit for three years.

Back in 1935 Buck, whose home is Elmhurst, Ill., booted a 22-yard field goal that beat Ripon, 3-0, and launched the Pioneers into their present winning streak, which has been tarnished only by a pair of ties. Since then his six-foot, 175-pound frame has dominated state college gridiron play.

Buck scored only 23 points in 1935, but he blossomed forth as a junior in 1936 to amass 14 touchdowns, one field goal, and 15 points after touchdown in seven games. His total of 102 points that year led the nation for three weeks and gave him second place eventually in national scoring.

In the seven-game season just concluded, the shifty-headed Buck totaled 73 points, which gives him status among the first 10 in mid-west college scores, led now by Wayne Shelby of Augustana, S. D., with 88 points.

The Carroll flash has a grand total of 23 touchdowns, 29 points after touchdowns, and two field goals in three years of play. His coach asserts his passing and punting were as invaluable as his running.

Buck played regular forward in basketball for two years and last season in track competition set a new state record of one mile in 56 seconds in the half mile.

His biggest problem now, outside of finishing a business course, is to handle his growing volume of fan mail from young admirers who want everything from his autograph to his secret of staff-arming an opponent. He confides that he has had a letter or two from national pro league teams.

Trojans, Irish to Battle in Twelfth Straight Skirmish

South Bend, Ind. —(AP)—The twelfth consecutive game of football's oldest intersectional rivalry between a Pacific coast school and a Cadet's college course, is to be played here Saturday when Notre Dame entertains the Trojans of Southern California.

Some 50,000 fans are expected to watch Southern California attempt to increase its victory total to six, while one game was tied.

The teams have played spectacularly on several occasions. The Irish won the opener, in 1926, by a 13-12 score. The 1927 score was 7-6 in favor of the Irish. In 1928 the Trojans won 27 to 14 and in 1931 they took a 16 to 14 thriller. The teams played to a 13 to 13 tie at Los Angeles last year.

The Irish rested yesterday, but Coach Elmer Layden sent his squad out for a long drill today.

64 Gridders Will Receive Emblems

Milwaukee Newspaper Men On Banquet Program For Football Teams

Athletic emblems will be presented to 64 gridders of Appleton High school and Lawrence college at a football banquet at the Conway hotel at 8:30 this evening sponsored by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and the Lawrence Men's club. Talks by two Milwaukee newspaper men will feature the program.

Coch Wallace Cole of the high school will present 22 footballers and a manager with letters for 1937 competition and Coach Paul Derr will award 22 Viking varsity players with letters and 20 freshmen with numerals.

Dr. Carl Neidhold will serve as toastmaster this evening and will introduce Russell G. Lynch, sports editor of the Milwaukee Journal, who in turn will introduce Oliver E. Kuehne, football writer for the Journal. Singing will be led by Carl McKee.

Frisch Will Adopt Methods of Football Coaching for Cards

New York—(AP)—Football coaching tactics, from skull practice to a coaching tower and a megaphone, will be used by Frankie Frisch, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals when he puts his Gas House gang to work at spring training in March.

"I've been thinking of it ever since the season closed, Frisch said. "I'm going to have a platform built and I'm going to get me a megaphone that'll make me heard all over the field. When a base runner fails to take an extra base when he should or an outfielder throws to the wrong base I'll use the megaphone and stop the play right there."

"We'll have a young team next year," continued Frisch, who has been coaching college football since 1924. "I always did think that makes mistakes. We'll go over and over the tough plays until we have them down pat. There'll be more training on base running, sliding cut-off plays and throwing to keep players from taking extra bases."

"And," concluded the one time Fordham flash, "I'll have a blackboard in the clubhouse for skull practice. I always did think that was a fine way of explaining things—but I'll have to practice up on my drawing."

Pitt Rated No. 1 Squad for Third Successive Week

California Second in Associated Press Poll of Sport Experts

BY ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Panthers have been rated as the hottest Rose Bowl debate in years but there's no doubt where they stand today in the national ranking of collegiate football teams.

Pitt rates the No. 1 spot by a decision margin for the third straight week in the Associated Press poll, based upon the combined opinions of sports experts.

The Rose Bowl champions were picked to head this week's list on 37 of 48 ballots and bracketed at the top with Fordham on another slate. The voting otherwise was marked by increased support for the pride of the west coast, California, ranking gains by Minnesota, Dartmouth and Villanova, and Notre Dame's displacement of Yale in the first.

Tabulation of Poll

Here's the tabulation of the sixth weekly poll, with points tallied on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

First Ten	Points
Pittsburgh (37 firsts, 1 tie for first)	469
California (10 firsts)	425
Fordham (one tie for first)	335
Alabama	320
Minnesota	202
Dartmouth	186
Villanova	141
Santa Clara	141
Notre Dame	107
Louisiana State	100
Second ten:
Nebraska	70; 12
Vanderbilt	27; 13
Univ. of Washington	20; 14
Yale and Texas Christian	16; 16
Colorado	14; 17
Holy Cross	12; 18
Duke and North Carolina	11; 18
Tulsa	8
Also ran:
Ole State, Harvard and Baylor	7 each
Stanford and Rice	3 each
Arizona	2
Detroit	1

The northeast, by placing four of its unbeaten teams among the first eleven, still holds the strongest sectional hand in the ranking list. Not in years has this sector been so conspicuously represented in the gridiron's upper strata.

On the basis of their relative positions in the poll, Pittsburgh has nothing much to fear in its final game with Duke to be played at Durham, N. C., this Saturday.

Alabama rules the favorite over Vanderbilt in their Thanksgiving day "natural" at Nashville.

It has been a roller-coaster season in the great southwest but last returns show Texas Christian with the strongest support.

Minnesota, the No. 1 team last year, made a strong finish to land in fifth place. The Gophers dropped close decisions to Nebraska and Notre Dame but topped the Big Ten's Ohio State, 21-14, in a victory that secured the national title spotlight.

Jack Ryan Is Answer to Army Coaches' Prayers

West Point, N. Y.—(AP)—Jack Ryan of Cherokee, Iowa, apparently has clinched a position in Army's starting lineup for the Navy game Saturday Coach Gar Davidson and his aides have been a bit worried over the Cadets' offensive weakness and Ryan seems to be the answer to their problem.

The hardest, fastest line plunger Army has had in some time, Ryan first appeared in the bucking back post in last year's Navy game, when he pulled off a 60-yard run before being forced out. Against the Navy he recovered the fumble, scored Army's touchdown and kicked the winning extra point from placement. He also intercepted a pass to stop the final Harvard threat. He turned in another fine performance against Notre Dame.

Machines Win Postponed Industrial Loop Match

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE
Machines (3) 881 828 816-2674
Post-Cres. (1) 873 898 890-2682

Willard Schmidt cracked a 505 series to lead the Appleton Machines to a 2-game win over the Post-Crescents in a postponed match in the Industrial Bowling league last night at the Arcade alleys. Irv Weiss smashed a 556 series to pace the Post-Crescents.

Benz Honorary Captain; Weiss Most Valuable

Wisconsin Gridders Elect Roommates to Team Honors for 1937

MADISON—(AP)—Fred Benz of Milwaukee, senior left end, was elected honorary captain of the 1937 varsity of Wisconsin football team and Howard Weiss, Ft. Atkinson, junior fullback, was named the most valuable man on the squad.

The youths are roommates. Both started every game this fall.

This year football squad was the first to have their own honorary captain system. Several seniors were eligible for the captaincy. Coach Harry Stuhldreier decided to pick a team leader before each game and let the lettermen name an honorary captain at the season's close.

Benz, noted for his spectacular pass snatching, added to his accomplishments great defensive football. He was one of the mainstays in the Badger line.

Weiss climaxed a fine season by gaining almost five yards each time he carried the ball against the champion Minnesota Gophers last Saturday. He scored Wisconsin's lone touchdown, and was outstanding on defense. He scored 20 points this season.

Benz captained the squad four times—against South Dakota State, Pittsburgh, Purdue and Minnesota. Walter Cole, Madison, who led the Badgers against Iowa and Chicago, and Neil Pohl, Milwaukee, who captained the Marquette and Northwestern teams, were the other seniors in the running for leadership.

Both Benz and Weiss starred in prep school athletics. Both are in the commerce school and both are members of the same fraternity.

Weiss is the second junior to be awarded the coveted prize since the practice was inaugurated in 1924. Eddie Jankowski, Milwaukee, was the other junior to win the honor.

Weiss will be a competitor for the most valuable player award of the Western conference. No Badger has ever won it.

Oshkosh Stars Open Thursday

First Game at Fondy, Nov. 25, Second at Oshkosh Nov. 27

Oshkosh — The mythical world's professional basketball championship which it won last season in defeating the New York Renaissance four out of seven games will be defended by the Oshkosh All Stars in 1937-38 when the team will play about 50 or 60 games throughout the state and in the east.

The season is to open with a Thanksgiving day game Thursday evening at Fond du Lac against the Chicago Lufit Florals. The opening game in Oshkosh will be Saturday, Nov. 27, against the House of David, which team will be played Sunday afternoon at Waupaca and Monday evening at Ripon.

Twelve games will be played, including two with the New York Renaissance, one of them at Madison at the fieldhouse, Sunday, Dec. 12, and the other at Oshkosh, Dec. 12, before the All Stars leave for an eastern invasion in which they will play at Fort Wayne, Ind., Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Buffalo, New York City, and Philadelphia.

Among the teams to be met will be Kate Smith's Original Celtics.

Oshkosh will have six of its regulars back from last season, all of them players well over six feet tall. Among them are two former All-Americans—Ed Mullen, a guard, of Marquette; and LeRoy Edwards, center of the University of Kentucky. Other regulars are Augie Vander Muelen, Carroll, forward; Peter Prebiski, forward; and Ray Hammann, guard, both of the University of Wisconsin; and Herman Witasek, guard, University of North Dakota.

Newcomers to the squad are Earl Overman, Butler university; Gordon Fuller, captain last year of the University of Wisconsin; and B. F. "Foots" Brownell, who is 6 feet 5 inches tall and only 19 years old, but said to be an outstanding player on the cage court.

Others may be added after the close of the pro football season.

K. of C's Roll for Ducks and Turkeys

Knights of Columbus bowlers rolled for regular weekly prizes last night at the Elks alleys and also for Thanksgiving day meals in the form of ducks and turkeys. Turkeys went to the bowlers with the top series in each shift and ducks to the high series on each team.

On the first shift F. Schmieder got the turkey and ducks went to Larry Schreiter, H. Crabb, Bob Ebbin, M. Kottenhofen, Dr. M. J. Eich, W. Steenis and G. Hoffman.

On the second shift Marty Umuth and W. Schiedermayer tied for turkey honors and ducks went to J. Hobbins, D. Kaufman, M. Schaefer, J. Balliet, J. Marx and Dr. R. J. Stingle.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

SEVERAL weeks ago this writer was invited into having his name put into a doubles handball tournament at the Y. M. C. A. Never having played a game of singles or doubles he worked out several times and learned that the Fox river valley all-conference selections did not turn out according to their pleasure. Granted they perhaps didn't get a fair shake, but we dislike to see the thing tossed around like a dead cat.

The still young Fox River Valley Sports Writers association has been free of serious discussion until now. Crying over the spilled milk, sure though it may be, will not change the all-conference selection, nor will it help in keeping the group together for its initial purpose of exchanging ideas and information on valley teams.

"Why be so belligerent about things that can so easily rip the sport writers group in two or half a dozen parts? It's still young and fragile."

Note to Morris Spector who is at the Methodist hospital in Madison recovering from pneumonia: If going to a Wisconsin football game lands you in a Methodist hospital, can you imagine what might have happened to me if I had accepted your invitation to go with you? Better get back in a hurry. Morris, for Ed Schmalz tells me a certain sailor in this town still is getting handouts on your credit.

And 'tis further said—That Boi Kolf of Oshkosh State Teachers college cagers gave some equipment to a rather slight youth Monday afternoon and later when he wandered onto the gym floor was surprised to see the younger sinking buckets from all angles and with great ease. "Who the—'s that kid," he exploded in an acquaintance. The friend looked and finally tagged him as a star forward with Rhineclander at the state high school, tournament last spring. And it 'twas, too. The boy's family now lives in Oshkosh.

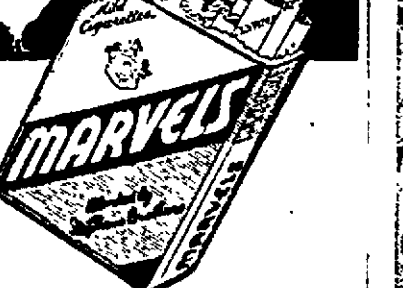

I wonder whether many of Clarence Rasmussen's friends noticed that Razz' mother died a couple weeks ago. It was a terrific shock to the former Lawrence grid mentor.

Tis said—that Myron Seims of the Appleton High school coaching staff won a turkey the other day and when he cut open the bird's crop he found a sparkplug. He says he looked for the rest of the car but didn't find so much as a bolt.

They say—that last Friday evening Jim Richmond of the Telephone team in the Merchants' league had a patch over one eye. So the boys set up a red pin as the head pin so Jim wouldn't miss. And then he usually got every pin but the red one.

A 232 game rolled by W. Steenis and a 593 series turned in by F. Schneider marked the outstanding individual performances in the K. of C. Bowling league on Elks alleys last night.

Steenis contributed his high game to Exide Batteries as they swept three with Puritan Bakery.

J. Schneider had a 204 game and a 563 series for the batteries. Bob Joyce's 496 series was best in the Puritan lineup.

Schneider had one game for 207 in reaching his high series as his team, Schneider Grocery, took two from the Appleton State bank. Hoff Pankratz hit 212 and S. Timmers 205 for the Grocers. L. Schreier's 241 series led the Bankers scoring. The Schneider team hit high team game, 1,030.

Klingert rapped games of 205 and 202, finishing with a 586 series, to pace Schmidt Clothiers to a 2-game win over Liebhens Grains and high match score of 2,857. For the Clinchers, Konrad rolled 203 and Stingle 204. Jack turned in a 533 series to lead the Grains.

M. Kottenhofen howled a 436 series to top Fountain Lumber as they won two from Rechner Cleaners, led by Dr. Joyce who had 222 and 487.

Products Take Two
R. Hamm spilled a 499 series as Hamm Products won two from Marx Jewelers. Marx turned in a 200 game and 221 series and Hartjes a 204 game for the Jewelers.

Liebhens rapped a 216 game and 538 series, Kaufman a 200 and Mahoney a 208 as Kaufman Hardware won two from Wisconsin Telephone Company. J. Hobbins' 204 and 496 were the best scores in the losers' lineup.

M. Unmuth banged a 540 series for the standard score as Peoples Laundry overlooked Schneider Dairy two out of three. M. Schaefer's 525 series headed Dairy scoring.

A 200 game rolled by Hildebrandt and a 548 series turned in by J. Marx marked Adler Brau's 2-game win over Shamrocks, paced by C. Van Abel with 201, 200 and 587. J. Balliet with 229, Frawley with 212 and Gritzmacher with 213.

Punts and Passes

By the Associated Press
Notre Dame, Ind.—Notre Dame will celebrate the fifth anniversary of the birth of Irish football Saturday at the Southern California game, at which members of Notre Dame teams from 1905 to 1910 will be guests. The Irish played their first game of football on Nov. 23, 1887, losing to Michigan, 8 to 0. The score might have been higher had not the Wolverines arrived in South Bend a day early to teach the game to the Irish.

Chapel Hill, N. C.—Southern football's oldest continuous rivalry will be renewed here Saturday when Virginia and North Carolina meet. It will be the forty-second contest between the two institutions. The Cavaliers, despite nine defeats in the last 10 games, hold the advantage. They have won 21 games to the Tar Heels' 17 with three ties.

New York—The budding young journalist who serves as Brooklyn college correspondent for a local newspaper called the sports editor to explain that Sid White, star Brooklyn college halfback who leads the nation's scorers, should be credited with 113 points for the season instead of 112. Through some oversight, he explained, White had been listed as making only one point after touchdown instead of two last Saturday.

For once the editor had no comeback. "You ought to know," he said.

The correspondent was Sid White.

Big Ten Gate Receipts May Exceed Two Million Mark

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO—(7)—Return to general circulation of what the boys call "folding money" is reflected in football attendance and receipts for 1937 in the Western conference.

Receipts probably will exceed the $2,000,000 mark for the season just closed—the highest figure since the peak year of 1927, Major John L. Griffith commissioner of the athletic for the "Big Ten" said today. The all time high was $2,770,000 in 1927. Last year the receipts were $1,750,000. The bottom was reached in 1932 when the cash amounted to $72,369.

The "Big Three" from the standpoint of attendance were Ohio State, Minnesota and Northwestern with the Buckeyes leading for the second consecutive year with eight games at home and abroad drawing an estimated 394,000. Although the final checkup will not be completed for several days, the Buckeyes no doubt will eclipse their all time high of 392,000 hung up a year ago.

Northwestern, although failing to retain its Big Ten championship, set an all-time new high for the Wildcats with a total of 339,800 fans at eight games. Northwestern's attendance this year was boosted by capacity crowds for the Ohio State and Minnesota games. About 67,000 came out for the Buckeye tilt and the Minnesota-Northwestern game drew 62,000. Northwestern's biggest home attendance was 44,000 for the Notre Dame game in the season's finale last Saturday.

Wisconsin and Illinois ran far ahead of last year's attendance figures, although a final checkup will not be available for a couple of weeks. Chicago, which failed to win a conference game, trailed the field.

The "Big Ten" schools split receipts right down the middle when they play each other. Only the cost of officials is deducted. The visiting team pays its own traveling expenses and the home team other incidentals of staging the game. When a conference team plays a non-conference school the visiting team gets a guarantee, which varies in accordance with the size of the school and the importance of the game.

Jimmy Dykes Will Be Popular Man At Meetings; Wants Third Sacker

CHICAGO—(7)—James Joseph Dykes, the little man who likes big cigars, probably will come out of the approaching baseball meetings with enough free stogies to carry him through the 1938 season.

Genial Jimmy, who has never been accused of being a baseball "wallflower," apparently is going to be one of the most popular "delegates" to the minor league convention Dec. 1-3 at Milwaukee and at the major league meetings to be held Dec. 6-8. And the chunky Chicago White Sox manager, with good reason, apparently is ready to have a big time for himself.

Wanted This Sacker
For one thing, Dykes wants a good third baseman. He observed his 41st birthday early this month and while he still knows a bit about playing the "hot corner," the legs are weak even though the spirit is willing. For another thing, Jimmy wants some outside punch, and

Y. M. C. A. Plans 2 Cage Leagues

City and Older Boys Circuit Now Being Organized

Organization of a City Basketball league and an Older Boys basketball league are underway at the Y.M.C.A., according to Ray Risch, physical director. No meetings are scheduled this week but both groups will meet next Monday night, the Older Boys at 7:15 and the City leaguers at 8 o'clock.

The City league is expected to have at least six teams and possibly eight. Play will be started on Dec. 2 or 9 and continue every Tuesday night thereafter. Two rounds will be played and at the end of the season the first four teams will figure in a playoff to decide the champion.

Teams under consideration are the Wire Works, Fox River, Y. Dormitory, Town Taxi, Neuman, DeMolay, Coated Paper company and two teams as yet unnamed.

The Older Boys circuit already has nine teams ready to play and three more are expected. Play will start on Dec. 4 with a month of games during which time changes will be made in lineups and the strength of clubs learned. At the end of the period the local league will be divided into two circuits with the stronger teams in one loop and the weaker ones in another. In January they'll start the regular league season.

Packers Lead in League Scoring

Green Bay Squad Has Gained Most Number of Yards in Pro Loop

New York—(7)—Six games from the end of the season, the teams of the National professional football league already have surpassed the total number of points accumulated a year ago. In 49 games to date they have rolled up 1,210 points, compared to 1,172 in 54 contests last season.

The increase has been accounted for by the five eastern teams, which have a total of 510 points to last year's 395.

Though held scoreless by the New York Giants yesterday, the Green Bay Packers continue to lead the league with 214 points in 10 games. The Detroit Lions and Washington Redskins are next in line with 180 and 132, respectively. The Packers also are tops in yards gained, with 2,984, while the Giants have the best defensive record. They have given up only 1,471 yards to nine opponents.

Green Bay, led by Arnie Herber, and Washington, with Sammy Baugh in the leading role, are running neck-and-neck in forward passing offense. Each team has completed 81 out of 189 aerials for an average of 42.8 per cent.

the Alabama backfield, the Crimson Tide's forward wall apparently is in the same class with the great line of 1934. The line has yielded an average of 57.5 yards by rushing thus far this season and opposing teams have averaged only 3.7 first downs in eight games.

Guards Defeated In Overtime Tilt

Company D Downed by Menasha Gold Labels; Score 26 to 24

Company D basketball team last night lost a 26 to 24 decision to the Menasha Gold Labels in a game played at Armory D and which went one overtime period. The count at the end of the regular period was 20-all. At the end of the half the Guards were trailing by an 11 to 15 score.

This evening Company D will entertain Mike's Taverns of New London.

In last night's game Beck set the pace for the Gold Labels with five baskets. Batters had three and two free throw for the Guards.

Chuters Point for Victory Tomorrow

Hope to Avenge Recent Defeat at Hands of Kimberly High

Little Chute—St. John Catholic High school basketball team will attempt to even matters with Kimberly High school cagers Wednesday night when they clash for the second time in a week at St. John's gymnasium. Last Friday evening the Papermakers eked out a 12 to 9 verdict over the Saints.

The Dutchmen feel they didn't have enough practice to make a good showing in the Kimberly game having been out for only four days. They also point to the 13 free throws they had and the fact they made only 2.

The same squad that started against the Papermakers is expected to show Wednesday. In that event Weyenberg, Lamers or Versteegen will be at the forwards. Van Aslen or Boots at center and Hammen and Koehn at the guards.

Kimberly is expected to start Krueger, Behrendt or Weyenberg at forwards; Van Dyke or Fleweger at center, and Van Boogart, LaBerge or Parent at the guards.

There will be a preliminary game between reserve squads from the two schools at 7:15.

Friday night the St. John Dutchmen will play the Collegians, former St. John stars now attending colleges, and the American Legion squad will play an opponent to be named.

Freedom and Pulaski Meet Wednesday Night

Freedom—Freedom High school cagers, riding along on the crest with wins over Seymour and Stockbridge, will play Pete Preboski's lads from Pulaski here Wednesday evening in the last of the non-conference games scheduled for Coach John McCormick's boys. Little Nine conference play opens on Dec. 3 with Freedom at Winneconne.

Freedom's latest win was over Stockbridge 28 to 20 with Byrnes getting three baskets, Murphy, Schroeder, Huss and Daul two each.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

By L.H. KINGSTON

GREEN BAY—Is deer hunting in Wisconsin doomed or can we go on having an open season every year? That question is going to be answered by Wisconsin deer hunters themselves during the three days, November 26, 27 and 28th.

That question is going to be answered by the number of fawns, does and spike bucks left dead in the woods by hunters after the shooting is over. It will be further answered by the way hunters conduct themselves—how they respect the property rights of people who live in the deer country, how many hunting accidents occur—and by the amount of money they spend in the deer country.

We have seen the vehement, almost hysterical protests against the 1937 open season by people of some of the northern summer resort counties. They, together with the usual number of gun abolitionists from all over the state, were strong enough and numerous enough to get two days off the proposed 5-day season.

The most important arguments these people have against deer hunters is their slaughter of protected deer, wild shooting, trespassing on posted lands, and their practice of not buying their hunting supplies in country where they hunt.

Deer hunters had better watch their steps!

The shooting of protected deer is by far the greatest indictment any one has against deer hunters. The fork horn law should make it possible for us to have an open season every year if deer hunters give it their full support and make it work, but if we fail then deer hunting is doomed, the anti-hunters will put an end to the sport.

The reason that last year's open season were encouraging investigations all agree that there were far less protected deer left dead in the woods than even before. It has been admitted that the open season this fall is in part a reward to deer hunters for their good behavior last fall.

Then why am I writing this? My reason is that I fear last year's good record will not be continued this fall; the short 3-day season will concentrate all hunters in the

Gabby Hartnett Given Huge Ovation at Chicago Fights

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(7)—Straight from the coast: California has just about made up its mind to ask Pitt to the Rose Bowl if Pitt gets past Duke Saturday.

Because if some other team is picked it will clear the decks for the Sugar Bowl (rapidly becoming a major rival) to come up with Pitt versus Alabama or some other such attraction.

When good old Gabby Hartnett was introduced at a Chicago fight the other night, 21,000 fans gave him a three-minute ovation.

He still is the No. 1 Chicago candidate for manager of the Cubs.

Ralph Vona, classy Asbury Park, N. J., welterweight, once was the favorite caddy of Edward G. Robinson, the film star.

TRAP SHOOTING FOR THE GUN CONSCIOUS HUNTER

By Robert Pare Lincoln
I WOULD SAY that one of the faults with the amateur hunter is that he is "gun-conscious," that is to say, he thinks along the length of the gun, more than about the game that is before him. Psychological ly this hinders concentration, as the mind apparently cannot divide itself completely as between the two and arrive at the best results. It is possible that the skilled shooter is but little conscious of his gun at all, his attention being almost fully directed on the game. He may be as little conscious of the gun he carries as a stick, that is to say, as to the impression it makes on him. To the amateur who is gun-conscious it may be the kick of the gun, the hammer, the trigger, the safety, the magazine, the type (a rather common thing, by the way), he certainly is gunconscious often to a degree where good shooting is practically out of the question.

A man who has not shot much if any, as between one shooting season and another, may be gun-conscious. The gun-conscious feeling, and, to a great extent, the act of flinching, can surely be overcome by going in for trapshooting, as this familiarizes one with the gun. Indeed I would say that a number of days of trapshooting before the season, or target work of some kind will help the hunter who has not done much shooting throughout the year, a great deal. Thus trapshooting aids one not only in concentration on the "game" before him, but also makes one used to shooting the gun, something that cannot be too strongly impressed upon the mind of the amateur. One does not necessarily have to go to a trapshooting club to indulge in this target work. There are hand-traps that can be used most effectively.

Undoubtedly the best of gunners have an instinctive ability at gauging distance. This I have firmly come to believe. By the same token it may be that some, as stated, never are able to gauge distance. But the amateur can be helped considerably in making himself more perfect by seeing the same distance that ducks generally fly at when they are within seeming range, laid out on the ground. Thus a target set at 40, another at 50 yards and so on up to 80 yards. Life can then familiarize himself with the shooting distances to the extent that he has some practical knowledge of these distances. He should not only observe these distances straight-on, looking at them, but likewise from the side. He will then, for the first time probably realize really what distance means. True, looking at these distances, as regards targets on the ground, is not the same as looking at the same from the air. If possible this can be helped out by raising the targets in the air at the given distances to that blue sky shows behind.

A pheasant in rising seems, at times at least, to have trouble in getting under way. This rise is accomplished by much beating of the wings, the more so if the pheasant is disturbed and makes his rise directly off the ground. The difficulty entertained here on the part of the pheasant is that the weeds around him do not give him an opportunity for full play of the wings such as would be the case if there was no weeds to hinder the beating wings.

Because a pheasant has difficulty, when surprised, in rising out of weeds that range three feet or more in height, a shot at a bird under such conditions is infinitely the best you will get, in that for a moment or so on topping the weeds the bird has trouble in getting under way. In other words, for a moment he seems to hang poised in the air, and then gains momentum gradually. If you can marshal a shot at the moment you will take your bird, that is, if not too close to you. A shot at 35 or 40 yards will give you a fair to generous pattern, everything else being equal. If too close there is likely to be too narrow a pattern with a recorded miss.

SCHICK SHAVERS MAKE POPULAR CHRISTMAS GIFTS

This year is expected to exceed all others in sales of Schick electric shavers as gifts because men have found electric shaving practical, convenient and economical, said Clarence Below of Schick's.

While previous models have been giving perfect satisfaction, the new improved faster operating models are superior to others in all around performance. The fast cutting flat head of the Schick clips off the hair at base level without irritating the skin and without ordinary razor blade shaving will find electric shaving the answer to their prayers. Men like them, too, because there is no messy lather to bother with nor blades to sharpen. All one needs to do is to plug in and he is ready for a clean comfortable shave regardless whether the beard is tough or skin tender.

The rush of Christmas orders is expected to deplete dealer stocks and Mr. Below recommends that reservations for gifts be made early. A small deposit will hold one for you at Schick's.

Eyston to Keep Speed Machine at Salt Lake

Salt Lake City—(7)—Capt. George E. T. Eyston said today he would store his racer "Speed of the Winds" here for the winter, keeping "the machine available for distance runs next year."

Racing fans took that as an indication he would seek a new record for the 24-hour run at Bonneville salt flats.

Ab Jenkins set the 24-hour record of about 161 miles per hour at the flats last summer. Eyston hit 319.11 m. p. h. in his "Thunderbolt" while setting the mile record of 311.24 Friday.

The Characters

Nina, a nice girl with flaxen hair.
Honey, Nina's plump, youthful mother, brings home a new husband.
Richard, Nina's stepfather, is charming, poised, dark-haired, well-tailored and Honey's junior by 10 years.
David, a young auto salesman, meets Nina at a party he crashed and drives her home. He has copper hair and an engaging manner. Cordelia, Nina's closest friend.

He interrupted. "Can't I be one of them?"
But she said she was afraid not. "O. K. I get it, Pal. I get it." "Don't be a sap, David." "I--won't." "Give me a ring tomorrow?" "Oh, sure Sure." "David..."
But he had said: "Goodbye" and hung up.
Nina stood, frowning, for a minute, and then continued on her way.

Chapter Six
David 'Gets It' Wrong

As Nina passed the telephone in the hall, it rang and she lifted the receiver.
It was David Day.
"Oh, hello David. How's Button?" "He's fine... and I'm very well too, thank you for asking." After all the serious thoughts that had been filling her brain, his foolishness was refreshing--like a drink of cool water, on a hot day. She said: "Oh, I'm splendid, thanks, since you ask." "Good. And now that our healths are an established fact, do you still want us to call this afternoon?" "You and Button? Will you tell him to keep a civil tongue in his head?" "Oh, listen, David, I just thought... could you make it some other day? A million things have come up since I saw you." She didn't feel like broadcasting Honey's news, without asking her.

No Diet, No Dye

Honey was sitting propped up in her double bed all radiant and white and glossy, like a Christmas-tree angel.
Nina felt a little embarrassed. Honey was 44. She kept her hair its original flaxen color with some sort of an egg shampoo, and she had occasional facials, when she was worn out from running-around not doing much of anything... but that was all she did to herself. Her skin was pink and smooth, but when you looked at it closely you could see definite little wrinkles under her blue eyes. There was a distinct line, too, just under the point of her chin, with fullness below... but somehow, on Honey, it only looked cunning. She wore clothes that were inclined to be frilly, but in perfectly good taste for a woman of 44, and she was the

Mayor, Attorney Attend Hearing On Rail Wig-Wags

Seek Signals for Four North Western Cross- ings at Kaukauna

Kaukauna — Mayor Lewis F. Nelson and City Attorney Harry F. McAndrews left for Madison this morning to attend a hearing of the public service commission of Wisconsin in regard to the installation of wig-wag signals by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in Kaukauna. They were appointed to attend the hearing at the last regular council meeting when a letter from the commission was read asking that the council name representatives to speak for them in this matter. The hearing was scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon at the offices of the commission at Madison.

The crossings for which Kaukauna has asked wig-wag signals are those on Green, Tobacco and Gertrude streets, and the crossing near the intersection of Highway 55 and 41 in Kaukauna. A wig-wag signal also has been asked for the main crossing over the railroad tracks in Little Chute from the village to the new U. S. superhighway No. 41.

A survey of these sites for signals was made recently and the hearing granted to Kaukauna upon the request of Assemblyman William M. Rohan, who arranged the hearing today.

Nelson and McAndrews went to the meeting only after some debate at the last council meeting, when Alderman Theodore L. Segelink objected to the cost of their transportation, and asked that the city write out its arguments and present them in that manner. Segelink's dissenting vote on the motion to send the two men had no company.

Camera Club Captains Named at High School

Kaukauna — Captains to lead the activities of the recently reorganized Camera club at Kaukauna high school have been chosen. They are D. Kobussen, Steven Andrejeski, M. Brandt, M. Pein and L. Vanderloof. Henry Greischar is the faculty member in charge.

Committees for the year also have been named by the club. S. Andrejeski, M. Walker, G. Wenzel, J. Derus and C. Driessen are on the program committee; F. Stegeman, B. Taggart, L. Schiemeyer, M. Brandt on the photographic committee, and M. Boucher, J. Juebeke, K. Busse and D. Kobussen on the membership committee.

Athletic Association In Drive for Members

Kaukauna — The Men's Athletic association at Kaukauna High school is now in the midst of its annual membership drive. Students from each of the four classes are in charge. Elmer Vanden Bloomen is freshman chairman, assisted by John Vette, Ivan Schatzka, Jack Niez and Tim McCarthy. Werner Altman leads the sophomores, aided by Donald Yingling, Lee Cooper, Arthur Otte, and Richard Steffen. Donald Siebers and Elmer Vanderberg represent the juniors, with Sylvanus Grignon acting for the seniors.

Complete Outer Walls Of Vaudeville Theater

Kaukauna — With the outer walls having been completed, work on the Vaudeville, Kaukauna's new theater, is progressing rapidly. At the present time the heating plant is being installed and the air conditioning system receiving the final touches. Steel is being laid for the floor of the lobby, and the ground leveled for the construction of the stage. The brick work on the front of the building has been finished.

Class Play Nets $75 To Aid School Annual

Kaukauna — Proceeds of the annual senior class play, "Bashful Bobby," present last Thursday evening, were $75. Miss Alice Gruenberger, dramatics coach, said today. The money will be used to help finance the Papyrus, high school yearbook distributed in June. The amount realized was the highest in several years, Miss Gruenberger added.

Glee Club Groups Will Sponsor Movie Program

Kaukauna — A double feature movie program at the Rialto theater Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 will be sponsored by the Girls' and Boys' Glee clubs of Kaukauna High school. The pictures scheduled for presentation on these nights are "The Girl Said No," and "On Such A Night." Tickets now are being sold by members of the clubs.

Thanksgiving Recess Begins Wednesday Noon

Kaukauna — Thanksgiving vacation for high school students will begin Wednesday noon, with school being resumed on Monday, Nov. 29. Olin G. Dryer, principal, said today. This week also marks the end of the second six-week period, and the students are busy with examinations.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Schools Will Present Thanksgiving Programs

Kaukauna—Thanksgiving will be celebrated at Kaukauna with two programs at the Outagamie Rural Training school and the high school.

The high school program, which will begin at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, will start with a history of Thanksgiving, a talk by Dolores Landreman, Lucille Hopfensperger will sing a vocal solo, "Thanks Be to God," and Arlene Schomisch will discuss the Pilgrims in Europe. Robert Cooper then will give another vocal solo, "The Mighty Deep," after which Rita Taggart will describe the contributions of the Pilgrims to democracy.

Wilfred Licht will then render the last of the three vocal solos on the program, singing "My Task," following which Louise Faust will speak on the reasons for Thanksgiving. The program will end with three selections by the glee club. These are "Hymns to the Pilgrims," "In a Monastery Garden," and "Beautiful Savior."

Marcella Thompson is the faculty adviser in charge of the program, with Dolores Landreman acting as student chairman.

The program at the Training school will begin with a reading by Emma Kugel, "The First Thanksgiving," after which Blanche McIntyre will present a piano solo, "Festive Pilgrim Song." Florian McCabe will give another reading, entitled "Thanksgiving Day," and the assembly will sing "Now Thank We All Our God." A humorous reading, "Give Thanks for What?" will be presented by Irene Martel.

The feature of the program will be a play, "An Old, Old Custom," written by a student, Emma Kugel. Jeanette Oet, Resonny Schmidt, Jeanette Guerin and Russell Coe have parts.

The committee in charge of the program consists of Florian McCabe, West DePere, Emma Kugel, Chynonville, and Phyllis Van Dyke. Little Chute. Piano accompaniments for assembly singing will be played by Blanche McIntyre.

Displays of Minerals Shown at High School

Kaukauna — Two new displays of minerals now are on view at the high school. They were recently purchased from the Central Scientific company and are being used to instruct students in the value of minerals.

One box contains examples of minerals that yield metals of commercial value, and another contains a mixture of 20 rocks and minerals, five sedimentary rocks, five metamorphic rocks, five igneous rocks and 5 minerals.

Bottlers Will Defend Commercial Loop Lead

Kaukauna — The Little Chute Bottlers, tied with the Gustin team for the lead in the Commercial bowling league, will play tonight against the Hopfensperger Meats, at present tied for second.

The Gustin team will play the Panty Lunch quintet, another second place team. Other matches have the Mellow Brews versus the Miller High Lites and the Post Office five versus the Gertz Tavern team.

Social Items

Kaukauna — The Royal Neighbors of America will meet at 7:30 tomorrow evening at the Odd Fellows hall. Routine business will be transacted.

The Happy Go Lucky sewing club, which was to meet Thursday, has cancelled its meeting because of Thanksgiving.

VISITS CLINIC
Kaukauna — Dr. W. C. Sullivan left today for Rochester, Minn., where he will spend a week at the Mayo extracted teeth and oral surgery clinics. Dr. Sullivan will return to his office here the early part of next week.

WILL ATTEND FUNERAL
Kaukauna — The Altar society of St. Mary's church will meet at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the church to attend the funeral of Mrs. Katherine Walls, who died Sunday.

"Darling! Come over here and sit down. I'm glad we're going to have a minute alone together."

So was Nina. And then her mother said a very extraordinary thing for her. "You know, baby, I have the feeling that last night we were all play-acting."

Nina's eyes opened so wide that she had to blink quickly. She didn't want Honey to see how astonished she was. Daddy's words came back to her. "If he was the right man, your mother would be a different person. . ."

"There were so many things I wanted to say to you, and just—didn't, somehow. I do so want you to be happy about this new marriage of mine, darling. I think your father would be. . ."

Nina reached over, took the soft plump hand that lay on the counterpane. "I know he would be, Honey dear; and I'm happy, if you are."

"And I wanted to tell you that it won't—couldn't—come between us, in any way, baby; or interfere with your life."

Nina said: "Silly, I hadn't even thought of that."

"Of course you hardly know Richard yet at all, but you'll adore him in no time—the way I did—the way everybody does."

"Bridget has succumbed already." "Has she?" That's nice. Bridget can be so difficult.

Dr. Ganfield Sees Planning as Cure For Depressions

Carroll College President Talks at Meeting of Clubkomen

New London—An end to the recurrence of nation-wide depressions is possible in the future if careful planning ahead is taken up by the best minds of the nation in government and industry. Dr. William A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, told about a hundred business and professional women at a state night meeting at the Elwood hotel last night. To his mind depressions are needless, he said.

The planning for the future and the possible escape from depression is the dominant thought throughout the nation today, the speaker said, as he reviewed various periods in American history to illustrate the consistent intimacy of relationship between the school curriculum and the experiences of the race. Down through history, what the teachers were teaching the statesmen were doing, he pointed out.

"We live in the fourth and most distressing period of that history when the equalization of goods among men is a universal passion," he said.

Two great ideas are prevalent on the campus reflecting the thought of today, according to the speaker. One is the advocacy of education and the affairs of men through government, the other favors turning more to the traditional policies of America.

Contrasting other periods to the first, Dr. Ganfield declared the nation's greatest statesmen were developed in the colonies in its early history when government was the patriots' only thought and sole effort. We need men like them today to lift the nation out of its dilemma, he said.

Need Statesmen

The sudden conversion of the nation's natural wealth from per capita poverty to prosperity nearly brought about the destruction of the government in the third period from 1873 to 1926. Dr. Ganfield impressed on his listeners. The sciences, inventions and investments increased the capital wealth of the nation 15 times during that period and drew all the able minds from government administration into the channels of industry and commerce. The professions were depleted of masters and an influx of ill-trained politicians into government resulted, the speaker explained.

In the second period from 1827 to 1873 the Civil war was fought needlessly over racial differences and questions which could have been settled as easily by conference, the speaker contended. The paramount problem then was the fusion of the nation into one solid union. The New London club was host to club members from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Green Bay, Stevens Point, Wisconsin Rapids, and Manitowish. The Sheboygan club expressed regrets at being unable to attend. The Appleton delegation motored to New London in a chartered bus.

The welcome was extended by Miss Margaret Laird, president of the New London club followed by a roll call of the visiting clubs. Community singing was led by Edna Kunz with Miss Mary K. Dineen at the piano. The high school boys quartet also appeared on the program.

Agriculture Students Study Tool Sharpening

New London—About 40 members of the Young Men's Agricultural association met at Lincoln school last night with L. M. Warner, Smith-Hughes agricultural instructor for group instruction on the sharpening of saws. The group had been working on a tool sharpening project the past several weeks. They meet each Monday evening and after classes gather in the high school gym for an hour of recreation.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF PROPOSED HATTEN MEMORIAL STADIUM AT NEW LONDON

New London—Above is the architect's drawing of the $12,000 Hatten Memorial Stadium as it will appear when erected in Hatten Memorial park as a WPA project. The present plans materialize. The structure will be almost entirely of native stone with material costs of $5,000 and labor by the WPA amounting to about $7,000. A stone enclosure for the athletic field is planned at the same cost with $9,000 for labor and $3,000 for materials. The stadium will be 116 feet long, 37 feet wide, 13 feet high, and will accommodate about 700 people. There will be no roof. Toilet and locker facilities will be built in. Plans and estimates are being completed by Walter J. Schoenrock, New London architect, to submit to the WPA. The new athletic field is being financed by a $10,000 donation from the late William H. Hatten.

School Music Groups Are Rehearsing for Christmas Programs

New London—Music groups in New London public schools are turning their efforts to Christmas programs, according to Miss Mary K. Donohue, director of vocal music. There are five vocal groups at Washington High school and the mixed chorus in particular, numbering about 45 students, has progressed sufficiently to make public appearance soon. Miss Donohue reported. The chorus is working diligently on Christmas songs.

A girls' trio has been assembled with Patricia Egan, Gertrude Plotz and Mary Dawson but rehearsals of the group are just getting under way. With the boys' senior quartet fairly well established practice is being concentrated on the junior quartet. The girls' club has enlarged to about 80 in number and work on their songs once each week.

Miss Donohue also has started open voice classes and a small group of students gather at the school each Saturday morning for instruction.

Rotary Lecturer To Give 3 Talks

Dr. Charles E. Barker to Address Students, Clubs, Parents

New London—Dr. Charles E. Barker, noted Rotary lecturer, will present three addresses in this city Wednesday under the auspices of the New London Rotary club as a community service program.

At 10 o'clock in the morning he will address students at Washington High school at a special general assembly; at noon he will speak at a luncheon meeting of the Rotary club with members of the Lions club as guests; and at 7:45 in the evening he will address a public audience of parents and young people at the Washington High school auditorium.

It is estimated that in his lecture career Dr. Barker has addressed more than four million adults, three million high school students, and approximately half a million college students in the United States and Canada. His success is attributed to his homely philosophy and humor, his understanding of young people and the direct appeal he makes to their mentality. He talks deal with the idealism of youth, their problems and future possibilities, the parents' responsibilities, and the principles of health and right living.

AGAIN!

Europe, South America or the Orient Every Day or Your Money Back

Zenith has been producing America's Finest Radios for 22 continuous years. That's long before most radio manufacturers of today were heard of. For instance, short wave, foreign reception is comparatively new to the industry; yet, 14 years old to Zenith. As early as 1923 Zenith sent short wave messages half way around the world. Hence, Zenith's famous short wave guarantee—Europe, South America or the Orient every day or your money back.

Now! Zenith tops its own brilliant record with the new 1938 models. By far Zenith's most superb achievement. These new models incorporate features of convenience and performance that make possible, for the first time, a "radio as you hoped it would be some day." That's why Zenith says:

Comparison Is Zenith's Best Salesman
